Our Poor Old Octopus
The Heavy Chain Store
The London Times Thinks
The Tough One Speaks

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

First, the Government chopped it up. That was sad.

Yesterday in New York, "Standard," goaded to heavy anger, cut gasoline one cent per gallon because the little independents were under-selling. Immediately little independents cut one cent under "Standard."

And then "Shell Oil" appears, genuine imported octopus from Britain and Holland, financed by the British, managed by the intelligent Deterding, Dutch by birth, British in diplomatic finesse. That "Shell" concern is voracious as the cormorant. And how it annoys our old octopus!

Maj. Cohen, who publishes the Atlanta Journal, says " 'Shell' is constantly opening new stations." His home town will have 75 there before long.

This for the information of American companies. Our Government forbids them to combine, while British-Dutch Shell jumps up and down on their stomachs.

Chain stores are here. The chains getting bigger and the little retail man complaining that they are getting HEAVIER.

They have the financial power, selling power, buying power. To compete with them build other chains, longer, heavier.

James A. Hearn & Son of 14th st. and Fifth ave., New York, dry goods firm more than a hundred years old, plans a chain of 15 department stores. Clarkson Cowl, one of New York's ablest merchants, will know how to make it go.

Other great department stores have adopted the chain idea. Marshall Field reached out to Seattle, started branch stores in Chicago, and is considering Cleveland. Gimbel Brothers have long since been established in many cities. Macy & Co. of New York have in Atlanta, Newark, Toledo powerful branch establishments, and, it is said, are considering branch stores in New York's boroughs, outside of Manhattan. Bullock's have established their first branch store in Los Angeles.

Secretary Mellon, advising caution in financial chain stores, says banks must be careful not to overdo branch banking.

Careful, of course, but in modern retailing the chain is the thing. It will help solve the problem of economical distribution, which is the modern problem. But it is hard on the individual store keeper.

The London Times wants President Hoover to defy the United States Senate, go ahead and make a treaty limiting our navy and binding the United States to go over and fight in case France should have trouble. The London Times is sure that the American people will support President Hoover in any such action that he might take.

The American people—fond of Mr. Hoover—have great confidence in him.

The London Times is mistaken if it thinks the United States will support the idea that foreign nations should regulate our national defense, or the more preposterous suggestion that Americans be sent across the ocean and billions spent again in case another fight started in Europe. And the Times underestimates President Hoover's common sense. The only American it ever met was Wilson.

Frank McErlane, "The Tough One," shot three times by gangsters as he lay wounded on a hospital cot in Chicago, is home at his mother's now, full of war. "Never mind who shot me," he tells police. "McErlane takes care of McErlane. Remember THAT the next time you find some rat dead in a ditch, like a sieve." "Like a sieve" means with many bullet holes.

[illegible] of energy and gameness going to waste in our gunmen. The police say McErlane is the inventor of "The Ride" from which a man marked and "put on the spot" never returns.

The Rev. John A. Ryan, professor of sociology, tells the House judiciary committee that President Hoover's request that citizens discourage violation of the Volstead Law is a sample of the "muddle-headed thinking" that prohibition has imposed on leaders of thought.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia College, demands a repeal of the prohibition amendment.

REPEAL DRY AMENDMENT, SAYS DUPONT

Urges State Control of Rum Business; to Be Handled by "Best Citizens"

Washington, Feb. 27 (INS)—One of the country's most powerful industrialists, Pierre S. du Pont, who heads the gigantic interests bearing that name, told the House Judiciary Committee today that he did not consider prohibition necessary in industrial efficiency, and that he was for outright repeal of the 18th Amendment as a means of regaining lost temperance.

Plied with questions from committee members, du Pont declared that from ten years' personal experience in his factories he never found prohibition constituted a serious problem.

QUESTIONS HONESTY

"In other words," said Michener, "this is a question on which great industrial leaders may differ honestly?"

"I question the word 'honestly' in every case," retorted du Pont. "Many industrial leaders who believe prohibition is good for the working man do not observe it themselves."

"You don't mean to imply that Mr. Sloan of your company, or Mr. Ford, are not honest in these beliefs," asked Michener.

"They must answer for themselves," replied du Pont.

Henry H. Curran and John C. Gebhart, both of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, testified that prohibition has failed, that it is "the great American mistake" and that intemperance has increased.

SPEAKS FOR REPEAL

"I believed at first that the prohibition amendment would be enduring because supported by the people," said du Pont, "but such was not the case. I am for repeal of the amendment first as a means of ridding the country of the use of alcohol. If there were no excesses there would be no problem. To prevent these excesses is the problem. It has been estimated that about 5 per cent of the people use alcohol to excess."

Du Pont said he had come to the Church Is Destroyed by Fire

Firemen of four cities and towns fought vainly today to save the Union Church at Main and Prescott sts., Watertown, which was destroyed with a loss of nearly $15,000.

The church was a semi-constructed building of one story, but plans were under way by the Rev. Charles Simpson, pastor, for a drive during Holy Week for funds with which to add a second story.

Services have been held in the basement since it was constructed.

The fire was discovered by a milkman who sounded the alarm. When Chief John W. O'Hearn arrived he ordered a second alarm, bringing apparatus in from Newton, Waltham and Belmont to aid.

Roy D'Arcy's Wife Seeks 2nd Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 27 (INS)—The marital affairs of Roy D'Arcy, actor, and his wife were again in the courts today, as Mrs. D'Arcy sued for divorce the second time. She charged mental and physical cruelty.

Two years ago Mrs. D'Arcy was granted a divorce. One month after the decree became final she and the actor were remarried.

6 Chicago Reds are Facing Deportation

Chicago, Feb. 27 (INS)—Deportation proceedings were to be brought against six avowed radicals, including one woman, today, following the seizure of 350 Communists here at a mass meeting.

Immigration officials who examined the records of 108 men and women seized by police squads declared that six were aliens. An effort will be made to deport them the officials said.

Hoover to Address Boy Scouts by Radio

Washington, Feb. 27 (INS)—President Hoover will make a radio address to the Boy Scouts of America on March 10, it was announced today.

The President will speak at 9 p. m. to a group of Boy Scouts and executives of the organization at a banquet, and his remarks will be broadcast over the Columbia chain.

Sharkey Weighs 197 Pounds; Scott, 205

By NICK FLATLEY

Miami, Feb. 27—Jack Sharkey tipped the scales at 197 pounds when he weighed in officially this afternoon for his bout tonight with Phil Scott of London. Sharkey was the first of the fighters of the "international boxing carnival" to weigh in. Scott, who followed him an hour later, weighed 205, eight pounds more than the Hub sailor. Scott looked like a runaway from the House of David, his face covered with brush several days old.

At 197 pounds Sharkey is five pounds heavier than when he fought Young Stribling here a year ago and a pound heavier than he was before he knocked out Tommy Loughran laset September in the Yankee Stadium in New York.

Sharkey was accompanied to the offices of the Miami Boxing Commission by his manager, Johnny Buckley, Chief Trainer Al Lacey and Trainer Tony Palozzolo. He was in good humor and exchanged "wise-cracks" with his party and the onlookers. He was weighed by

TAFT NEAR END; ALL HOPE IS ABANDONED

Any Gain in His Condition Will Be Temporary, Says Doctor

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—Broken by weeks of illness, William Howard Taft had lost so much ground in his fight for life today that his physicians said there remained no hope for recovery.

Confirming for the first time the fears of the family and friends of the former President and chief justice, Dr. Francis R. Hagner said after a morning call at the Wyoming ave. home that it now was a question of days, and perhaps only of hours.

"Mr. Taft is in a critical condition," said the physician. "There is no hope of his recovery. Any improvement will only be temporary."

It was disclosed that Mr. Taft had suffered a serve sinking spell about 9 o'clock today. Both Dr. Hagner and Dr. Thomas A. Claytor were summoned.

The two physicians returned to the Taft residence at 1 p. m. They said they had not been summoned again but had planned to call at that hour.

At 1.30 Dr. Hagner announced there was no change in the critical condition of the patient.

CANCEL RECEPTION

News of Mr. Taft's condition today spread sadness throughout Washington. Immediately after Dr. Hagner's bulletin was received at the White House, the President and Mrs. Hoover cancelled the reception which was to have been held tonight for members of the House of Representatives.

"In view of the physicians' state-

Cardinal Del Val to Be Buried Monday

Vatican City, Feb. 27 (AP)—Funeral services for Cardinal Merry Del Val will be held Monday morning in St. Peter's cathedral.

The services will be conducted at the altar in the right transe dedicated to Saints Processus and Martinianius, just opposite the altar where Cardinal Rampolla's funeral was held in 1913. All cardinals of the Curia, members of the diplomatic corps and the Roman aristocracy will attend.

'Curse of Tut' Boon to English Actor

London, Feb. 27 (INS)—The "curse of the Pharaohs," which is linked with 13 deaths in circles connected with the opening of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, has slipped into reverse English.

It has brought luck to Cyril Smith, English actor, now directing a successful musical production. Smith claims his failing eyesight was restored and his golf handicap reduced to eight strokes following a visit to the Pharaoh's tomb.

Hoover Blacksmith If Ford Idea Ruled

Fayetteville, Ark., Feb. 27. Dr. John C. Futrall, president of the University of Arkansas, is inclined to think that Herbert Hoover would be a blacksmith if Henry Ford's ideas of education had prevailed.

Futrall told a radio audience that Ford's plans are in the direction of the stratification of society, such as has existed in Europe, where a boy learns the trade of his father and is not qualified to do anything else.

B. U. MAN SHOT BY GANGSTERS

Detroit, Feb. 27 (AP)—Alfonso E Sirica, attorney for James Fernando, who was convicted of the kidnaping of five-year-old Jackie Thompson, lay dangerously wounded in Receiving Hospital today, the victim of two would-be assassins whom he says he recognized.

Sirica, a graduate of Boston University Law School, was shot last night by one of two men who drove alongside his auto in a small roadster at Canfield ave and Orleans st. Six charges were fired from a pump gun.

He wrote a note to William D. Brustar, assistant prosecuting attorney, saying he recognized the men who shot him. He then asked for a police guard and refused to write further.

4000-Yr.-Old Coffins Are Found in Egypt

Philadelphia, Feb. 27 (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania Museum announced today that it has received a cablegram stating that one of the largest collections of coffins ever found in one tomb in Egypt has been unearthed by the university's expedition at Meydum.

The coffins, all of which contain mummies, range from 2200 years to nearly 4000 years in age, it was stated.

"Nearly 30 coffins and mummies found in the new tomb," the cablegram from Alan Rowe, field director of the expedition, stated. "One coffin contains a mummy covered with head network over which

RING BOUTS, WRESTLING 'IN BAG,' IS CHARGE

Legislators at Hearing on 10 Bills Claim the Gamblers Rule Sport in Boston

"Fixed" fights and "bagged" wrestling, sport influenced by the gambling fraternity and sadly misdirected by a boxing commission that should be abolished, comprise the fare of the Boston ring and mat fan, according to charges hurled at the State House today.

The occasion was a hearing before the legislative committee on public safety on 10 bills affecting boxing and wrestling in Massachusetts. A crowd which included boxers, wrestlers, promoters, gamblers and fans jammed the hearing room.

Startling accusations were made and some went undenied. Many fights were said to be "fixed"—and specific bouts were named—and nearly all wrestling was declared to be "in the bag."

RAPS BOXING COMMISSION

Rep. Slater Washburn's bill for a commission of seven to investigate wrestling and boxing in Massachusetts received considerable support. The Worcester legislator himself was the first speaker.

The present boxing commission should be abolished, he said, and a new commission outside the jurisdiction of the public safety department appointed. In the promotion and operation of boxing and wrestling throughout the state there are many direct violations of law and he stands ready, if an investigation is voted, to submit proof in many instances, he declared.

"We have come to the parting of the ways," he said. "Either these sports must be cleaned up or they must be abolished."

Among his charges were: Many rings are unfit for use; many officials without license officiate; favoritism is shown Boston officials; promoters substitute boxers without notifying the public; ushers put their friends in good seats other people have paid for and cannot obtain; gamblers have induced their friends to take out licenses as officials; some boxers who earn their money never get it."

CITES SHIRES "BOUT."

There is too much clowning in Boston rings, he said, and referred to the Arthur (the Great) Shires-Arthur (the catcher) Spohrer bout as a "pitiful exhibition."

"If we're going to have vaudeville, let's have vaudeville where it belongs," he added.

He said he had heard that some newspaper sports writers have financial interests in some boxers, and hoped the report was not true.

"We've all heard that wrestling is 'in the bag,' and how easily bouts are faked," he said, and challenged anyone present to say he had attended wrestling matches that hadn't been "bagged."

WANTS BUCKLEY'S SCALP

Former Lieut.-Gov. Edward P. Barry stood and said he had attended wrestling matches that were not fixed.

"I am glad to know there is one who can say that," said Washburn.

"Boxing Commissioner Eugene Buckley should resign for the good of the sport," said Rep. Peter Fitzgerald of Dorchester, speaking in favor of Washburn's bill.

"Gen. Foote and a man named Niland are the other two commissioners, but we never hear of them. It's a one-man commission and Commissioner Buckley is hopeless-by [illegible] in administering his office.

"I [illegible] this as a reflection upon his character, but he is no match for the crooked persons in the background.

"The recent Fuller-Bass fight was a palpable frameup. Bass fouls, gets away with $5000 in cash of the Boston fans' money. Fuller, a Boston boy, has his purse of $1500 tied up by the club.

"The newspapers have referred continually to foul bouts. Commissioner Buckley has failed to keep pace with the times and he should resign."

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer, whose petition giving referees power to disqualify [illegible] boxers after consulting the judges and to hold up both purses, turning them over to the state, was among those being heard.

"These boxers, imported from New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, have no intention of putting on a fair match when they come to Boston. They get together on the train and say, 'Well, let's not ruin our reputations in Boston; we'll stall around, get the money and get out.'

CHARGES FIGHTS FAKED

"Their [illegible] of three months' suspension doesn't mean a thing to them; they don't intend to come back anyway."

He said the Jackie Fields-Gorilla Jones bout was a deliberate fake and that they took $10,500 out of Boston after a miserable exhibition.

"The [illegible] blow a fighter can [illegible] is in his pocketbook," he said. "When you hit a boxer in his pocketbook, it hurts. When they have to fight or lose the money, they'll fight."

Rep. Corbett, former national amateur boxing champion, favored Washburn's bill. He also favored draw decisions. Rep. William Hickey of South Boston, declared Boston referees were not up to the standard.

"Even the cops on duty at the bouts are 'in' and know when the 'fix' is coming," said Rep. Marcella of the North End.

Senator William S. Conroy, of Fall River, expressed his opinion that there is no basis to reports of fake boxing matches.

"Even Caesar's wife and George Washington were under suspicion," he declared.

BUCKLEY DEFENDS SELF

Barry revealed that he appeared as counsel for Paul Bowser, wrestling promoter, in opposition to a bill that would place wrestling under the jurisdiction of the boxing commission. This bill was withdrawn.

In his own defense and in the defense of the commission, Eugene Buckley said: "I'm not the pooh-bah of the boxing game. There are two other members, Gen. Foote and Mr. Nilan. They vote on every matter that comes before the commission.

"I know there's plenty of talk and rumor about the boxing game. Boxing thrives on wrangling and difference of opinion. Representative Washburn has made no specific allegations. He has merely repeated rumors that are common.

"The commission is faithful in its trust, has never shirked responsibility and has sought to purify every boxing club in the State."

He said that to his knowledge the last fake bout in Boston occurred eight years ago.

The commission, he said, was preparing a new set of rules and regulations to be approved by the Governor and executive council.

ment as to the critical condition of the former President of the United States, Mr. Taft," said the White House statement, "the President and Mrs. Hoover have regretfully cancelled the reception to be given to members of the House of Representatives."

Announcing in the House that the White House reception had been cancelled, Republican Leader Tilson read to his colleagues the statement of Mr. Taft's physician that there was no hope of recovery.

News of the announcement spread rapidly in other parts of the capital. President Hoover was among those who kept in close touch with the Taft residence by telephone.

Mr. Taft's condition showed signs of a final weakening in many ways. Heart trouble and hardening of the arteries had combined with the bladder trouble which first caused him serious difficulty a month ago. His pulse was very low, and respiration uncertain. He had some fever, but it was not excessive.

A general breakdown had followed upon the combined inroads of the various ailmetns which early in February forced him to resign as chief justice and since have kept him in bed under the anxious eyes of family and physicians.

DuPont Urges State Control of Liquor

conclusion that those who use al should be numbered among hospital patients.

There have been four prohibition amendments to the Constitution, including slavery, voting rights for women and negroes, Dupont pointed out, and there is no enforcement for any one of these amendments except prohibition, he said.

"We have been forced to adopt uncommon enforcement acts of a kind never believed possible," he said. "These laws are rigorous beyond previous conception.

WHY SUCH LAWS?

"Why should the prohibition amendment alone require such laws?" he asked.

Dupont argued his case from the standpoint of a practical business man-student of the subject. He talked in a matter of fact voice, entirely lacking in emotion. His speech indicated he had made an extensive study of all phases of the prohibition problem. The committee gave him close attention.

Du Pont conceded that enforcement of the amendment was effective immediately after the prohibition amendment was adopted.

"My belief is that we have slumped continually since 1920, growing worse and worse as means of getting liquor have become easier and the will of the people has asserted itself," he said.

He declared that repeal of the Volstead act would not meet the situation.

People have become hard-liquor drinkers in the last 10 years, and more emphatic measures are necessary to curb the appetites, he said.

"I do not believe that light wines and beer would solve the question," he said.

"Let there be no dishonesty of purpose. Let us go further and repeal the 18th amendment."

Repeal of the 18th admendment, he said, would permit the states to assume control. He suggested that repeal not take effect until a year after voted to give the states time to adjust themselves.

"I would even be willing to amend the amendment to permit it to apply only to those states who want it," he said.

The important thing, he said, is to put the liquor traffic in good hands. A hundred years ago, he asserted, the tavern keeper was respected.

URGES STATE CONTROL

"Why should we further degrade this business by putting the traffic in the hands of the criminal class as we have under prohibition?"

Under state control, he said, corporations could be organized to take control of the traffic with proifts limited.

"Conditions have become such that our best citizens would be justified in joining in such an endeavor," he said.

"That is the ultimate solution. We must make this traffic respectable."

He suggested that ministers and other church people might join in forming such corporations.

In reply to Rep. Bachmann (R.) of West Virginia, he said he sent out 100,000 questionnaires to Delaware people and over 90 per cent of those who replied favored a change in the law. He sent out a recent questionnaire on repeal of the state prohibition law. Of 43,000 replies 90 per cent are for repeal.

Rep. LaGuardia (R.) of New York asked him whether prohibition is necessary for industrial efficiency.

"I was in the Dupont factory for ten years and I never found that prohibition was a serious problem," he said. "There was one complaint of conditions in one factory and the remedy was to provide a bar."

Du Pont said the great change in the economic life of the nation was brought about by the motor car.

"This development has so far overshadowed everything else that I doubt if it can be said that prohibition has been an important factor in our economic development," he said.

He told Rep. Moore (R.) of Ohio, that no intelligent effort was made to enforce or control the saloon before prohibition. The effort was to ablish it, he said.

"We all know that this mistaken law is opposed, despised and cheerfully violated by an overwhelming majority of the American people," said Curran. "There never was a chance for a nation-wide prohibition law. It was definitely doomed to failure from the day it was written on the books because it was a fundamental error in the first principles of government. It may well be called the great American mistake."

SOVIET CLOSES CHURCHES

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

Moscow, Feb. 27—Three thousand children paraded the streets in Pervomaisk, in the Ukraine Soviet, demanding the closing of all churches here.

The church-closing and bell-junking campaign is sweeping the country like an avalanche, gaining momentum daily. Despite this, the Komsomolskaya Pravda, official organ of the Comsomols (League of Communist Youth) denounces the bureaucratic village Soviets which "delay the closing of churches and synagogues, thus retarding cultural work among the masses."

At Petropavlovsk, in the Ukraine Soviet, the city's bells have been silenced, and yesterday three cathedrals, one Catholic church, one synagogue and three mosques were closed.

The atheist society here has collected 2000 signatures to a petition in its second concerted attempt to get the Moscow Soviet to close the famous Choral Synagogue, the largest in Russia.

J. D., SR. OUT OF ALL BUSINESS, SAYS SON

Issues Denial That His Father Is Directing the Oil Trade War

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today issued a statement denying reports that his father was directing an "oil trade war."

"I must [illegible] deny," he said, "the statements that my father has again taken the initiative in dictating oil policies and that it was he who directed Standard Oil interests to order a cut in the price of Texas and Mid-Continent crude oil.

"Naturally, my father continues to be interested in anything pertaining to the oil industry, to the development of which he gave so many years of his life. Since his retirement from business, more than a quarter of a century ago, he has had nothing to do with the operation or management of any oil company or other business, much less the determination of oil policies, whether in relation to prices or anything else."

"Neither my father nor I," Mr. Rockefeller added, "knew anything about the recent cut in crude oil prices until we read of it in the public press.

"The oil companies in which we are interested are managed and their business policies determined by their officers and directors, and not by their stockholders."

First American to Die in War Honored

Paris, Feb. 27 (AP)—The first American citizen who died fighting for France was remembered in a little ceremony today at the monument to American volunteers in the Place des Etatsunis, not far from the American embassy.

A wreath was placed there by the Association of American Volunteer Combatants in memory of Edward Mandell Stone who died 15 years ago and was awarded by France the military medal and the Croix de Guerre. He served in the foreign legion and was wounded Feb. 17, 1915, in the trenches near Craonelle in the Aisne department. Ten days later he died, aged 27. He was the son of Henry Baldwin Stone, vice-president of the Burlington road.

SEEK BROCKTON FIREBUG AFTER THIRD BLAZE

One Fireman Is Hurt When Stairs Collapse; Two Families Driven Out

Brockton, Feb. 27—This city and vicinity is being combed today for a firebug, following a $20,000 general alarm blaze in the Ryder Block on Main st., which police declare was of incendiary origin. Two families were driven out and one fireman was injured.

It was the third general alarm fire Brockton has had within a month and the seventh serious fire in that period, as well as the third blaze in three days, and police and fire officials have joined forces in their hunt for a firebug.

The firemen brought the blaze under control after a fight of several hours, but not until the flames did considerable damage in the Ryder block.

Hoseman Charles F. Richardson suffered a crushed [illegible] when a staircase he was climbing collapsed.

The blaze is believed to have started in the quarters of the Brockton Post, V. F. W., on the third floor of the Ryder block. Two families were living on the second floor and they were driven out. On the first floor were the Rivalney store, Williams Bakery, a fruit store, owned by A. Lochetti, and the Bon Ton Hat Shop.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, their 10-year-old son, William, Jr.; W. H. Wood, and the janitor, Charles Mosher, were those driven from the second floor to the street.

City Marshal Herbert Boyden of the Brockton police assigned Acting Inspector Pantaleone Fromo and six members of the flying squadron to patrol the East Side section of the city, where all but one of the fires has occurred. Two of the incendiary fires were at the Huntress home on Thatcher st.

The third was on Quincy st. Police believe that the firebug is the same person who gave firemen plenty of work for several weeks in responding to false alarms.

Ashes Fire Routs Eight From Homes in Malden

Eight persons were driven to the street today when fire, starting from ashes in the basement, raced through the two-family house at 24 Magnolia st., Malden, causing damage estimated at $4000.

Archie Packard, who, with his wife, occupies the first floor, was awakened by smoke and aroused the family upstairs, including Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cassels; their daughter, Mrs. Lillian Hyman; a child of Mrs. Hyman's; Miss Sadie Cassels, a school teacher, and Dr. Harry Cassell, a dentist.

One of the occupants cried "Fire" over the telephone and the operator notified the fire department. The wires in the house melted before she could get any more information. After a slight delay the firemen arrived.

Who Interest You and What They Are Doing

Marion Spore, "Angel of Bowery,' May Wed Bush

Reno, Feb. 27—Irving T. Bush, founder of the Bush Terminal enterprises in New York, of which he is now president, passed today dodging reporters who attempted to quiz him on the reputed rift in his marital happiness.

Marion Spore

He refused to confirm or deny reports that he has joined the local divorce colony, although he did remark: "I shall be here for some time."

The Nevada divorce law requires three-months' residence.

The wife from whom Bush is allegedly seeking his freedom is his second. She was Mrs. Maude Howard Beard, daughter of "Joe" Howard, widely-known newspaperman, and widow of Francis D. Beard. They were married in 1907.

It was reported here that Bush plans to marry Miss Marion Spore, the "Lady Bountiful" of the New York Bowery.

Film Director Neilan and Playwright Clash

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 27 (INS)—A flare-up between Marshall Neilan, film director, and Arthur Caesar, playwright, in a cafe, was being discussed today.

Marshall Neilan

Harsh words were reported to have been exchanged, but there were no fisticuffs as in the recent Jim Tully-John Gilbert disagreement which has since been patched up.

"I started to sock him," Caesar said.

It was said he was deterred by the presence of Jack Dempsey.

Neilan's only comment was, "Nothing to it—must have been a couple of other guys."

Neilan did not go to the cafe to praise Caesar, but, according to the playwright, became insulting as soon as he entered.

Janet Gaynor Sails Alone, Hubby Is 'Busy'

San Francisco, Feb. 27 (INS)—Janet Gaynor, film star, was en route to Honolulu today and her partner of the films, Charles Farrell, was still here, although he had planned on going to Hawaii on the same boat.

Janet Gaynor

Without knowing of each other's plans, both had booked passage on the Maui. Rather than cause gossip, Farell, who was already aboard ship, decided to forego the trip to Honolulu.

"Mr. Farrell and I had not the slightest intention of booking passage on the same boat," said Miss Gaynor, who also indignantly denied that she and her husband, Lydell Peck, had separated. "He could not leave his work, so I decided to take the trip between pictures."

Hoover's Son Purchases $200,000 Radio Outfit

New York, Feb. 27—Herbert Hoover, Jr., chief of radio communications of Western Air Express, has purchased from the Western Electric one of the largest orders for airplane radio equipment ever made.

Herbert Hoover, Jr.

Young Hoover said work would be started immediately installing nearly $200,000 worth of equipment in 29 Western Air Express ships. He added:

"With this new radio equipment on the planes, the pilots will be able to carry on continuous telephone communication with the terminal and intermediate fields."

The 26-year-old son of the President came from Los Angeles to inspect the equipment and sign the contract for his company.

Slips Handcuffs, Walks to Freedom

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—Slipping his handfuffs as he and 12 other federal prisoners were being unloaded from a prison van at the federal building today, Ralph Martin, a Cuban dentist, mingled with a crowd watching the unloading and escaped. His escape was not noted for several minutes.

MOVE TO OUST M'DONALD MINISTRY

Expect Climax to Be Reached Tonight by Vote in the House of Commons

1—Move to overthrow the MacDonald ministry expected to reach a climax in a vote tonight in the House of Commons on a coal mine bill. If MacDonald wins, it is expected to be on a very scant majority.

2—With the possibility of the fall of the MacDonald government in England, the outlook for the naval parley was precarious.

3—Premier-designate Tardieu was endeavoring to form his Cabinet and was having a difficult time of it.

4—American delegates laid plans to humanize the submarine, then held a conference with the Japanese delegates in an effort to end the American-Japanese cruiser deadlock.

London, Feb. 27 (AP)—The MacDonald government today was facing a critical vote in the House of Commons on the pending coal mines bill and there was some perturbation in political circles where it was predicted a defeat might cause resignation of the government and precipitate a general election.

The situation was somewhat the same as last December on the second reading of this controversial measure when the government just slid through with a majority of eight.

Now there is the added complication of the question arising in the midst of the naval disarmament conference which already has been crippled by the political uncertainty in France.

So far as could be determined nobody wants a British political crisis at this juncture, but it was recognized that circumstances might conceivably produce one.

A vote on the bill is expected tonight.

The issue between the government and its critics is the scheme contained in the coal mines bill for the compulsory regulation and limitation of output which is opposed by both the Conservative and Liberal parties except for a few dissidents in each camp.

The Laborites regard this scheme as the heart of the measure, which is designed to improve the condition of the coal industry, which has long been in bad plight.

There were some factors which suggested the government would be able to defeat whatever combined opposition is mustered against the bill.

WOULD SCRAP BATTLESHIPS

MacDonald, questioned in the House of Commons as to whether he expects to arrive at any international agreement for naval disarmament, today replied emphatically, "Certainly."

He told questioners the policy of the British government at the naval conference looked to the eventual disappearance of battleships.

The Premier, in his reiteration of the British stand, added, however, that his aim would have to be attained by international agreement.

"We cannot go one pound of avoirdupois beyond what the other powers are prepared to do," he said.

FACES TIGHT VOTE.

The Conservatives are proverbially plagued in divisions by absences among their members. It also is understood that a number of Conservatives are known to be sympathetic to limitation of output and, therefore, will likely abstain from voting deliberately.

A few Liberals, who wish to avoid injury to the government, it is reported, will either vote with the Labor party or abstain.

The labor rank and file is declared to be strongly in favor of an immediate election if the government is beaten.

Prevailing opinion around Westminster, however, appears to be that the government will not be defeated, but will have a margin of safety so small that there is always the possibility of a serious parliamentary "accident."

"Another coffin dates from the 12th dynasty, about 2000 B. C., and is covered with texts. Now opening other great tombs."

"The tomb," Rowe continued, "seems to be really a cache of coffins and mummies which had been collected together and stored there for some reason or other. From the bottom of a deep pit, eight chambers radiate in various directions. About five of these chambers are piled ceiling-high with broken and unbroken coffins.

"The cache has apparently never been robbed. This is the biggest find of coffins I have ever seen in Egypt and is of the greatest importance. It is, of course, yet too early to say what they contain."

Many rare amulets, pendants, and great quantities of beads have been recovered, the report further stated. The tomb is guarded day and night until it is cleared out.

PLAN SUBWAY EXTENSION TO EASE TRAFFIC JAM IN BACK BAY

NAME BOARD TO CONSIDER PROBLEM

New Lines Are Expected to Remedy Conditions Existing at Governor Sq.

The first step in a plan to relieve traffic congestion at Governor sq., Back Bay, at the outlet of the Boylston st. subway was taken today.

A committee of three was appointed to draw up a bill providing for extension of the subway to points in Commonwealth ave. and Beacon st. beyond the square.

The committee, chosen at a meeting in the State House between Mayor James M. Curley, representatives of the Boston Elevated and Legislature, will submit a bill to the Legislative committee on metropolitan affairs next Wednesday.

The committee consists of Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman of Boston, H. Ware Barnum, counsel for the Elevated, and Frederic S. Snow, counsel for the directors of the road.

Following years of controversy over the project, the traffic muddle in Governor sq., where the worst traffic tangles in the city occur, seemed in a fair way toward solution, according to Mayor Curley and others.

SEE SOLUTION NEAR.

Others who participated in the State House conference today included Henry I. Harriman, chairman of the Elevated trustees; Representative George A. Gilman of Boston of the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs, Thomas H. Bilodeau, special counsel of the city of Boston.

In addition the conference was attended by City Auditor Rupert H. Carven, Gen. Charles H. Cole, Elevated trustee; Edward Dana, general manager of the road; Gen. Edward Logan and Robert J. Bottomly, the last two members of the newly-created transit district council.

The committee appointed today, according to Mayor Curley, will confer with a view to considering what legislation is necessary to permit extension of the Boylston st. subway to a point on Commonwealth ave., near Temple Israel and on Beacon st., near the railroad bridge, which would prevent the tieups that now occur daily in that area.

PLAN AN OVERPASS.

The committee, according to the Mayor, will also consider building of supports at Governor sq. which would permit construction of an overpass for vehicular traffic.

For several years city and Elevated officials have been deadlocked on the method of financing the proposed improvement. At a recent legislative hearing Mayor Curley said he believed the city of Boston should build the subway extension as it had formerly done and lease it to the Elevated at a rental of 4½ per cent.

SEEK PAY RAISE FOR JUDGES

Court officials and legislators from various sections of the state today urged increased salaries for probate and district court judges at a hearing before the legislative committee on public service.

In connection with the recent report of salary readjustments by a commission which studied county salaries, it was brought out that one judge of the Eastern Franklin court, would suffer a reduction.

Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., chairman of the special commission, gave assurance that none of the reductions specifically provided for in relatively small populations in certain courts, would affect present incumbents.

Judge George F. James of Norwood, speaking for the District Court Judge's Association, suggested that a certain class of the special district judges be raised from $2800 to $3300. He pointed out that there is an increased volume of work in the lower courts and that these judges are not allowed to appear as lawyers in certain kinds of private cases.

Donates $1000 to $10,000,000 Fund

Old Colony Chapter of Quincy, Order of DeMolay, through Chester I. Campbell, chairman of its advisory board, has donated $1000 to the $10,000,000 endowment fund campaign, which was launched today in Kansas City, Mo.

The Quincy chapter was the first out of 40 chapters in Massachusetts to contribute to the fund, which is for the purpose of carrying on the work of the grand council throughout the country.

Runaway Girls Won't Go Back to School

Refusing to return to the Whittier school at Merrimac and its "no boy friend" edict, four girls who ran away from the academy to roam to Florida and Hollywood, only to be overtaken at Fitchburg, were at their respective homes today.

All expressed keen pleasure at their return, for one night in the open taught them what they were up against, but they were equally sure their gesture for more freedam was going to be successful.

Tired, bedraggled, wet and much the worse for a night spent huddled under a single blanket in the woods near Andover, the runaways were penitent, but tearfully firm in repeated statements that they would never go back to school.

TIRED OF DISCIPLINE

The girls told Inspector James Enwright of Fitchburg, who questioned them, that harsh discipline which they said they were unable to endure, caused them to leave the exclusive school, which musters only about 20 pupils. Florida was their original destination, they declared, but they later decided in favor of Hollywood.

The girls are:

Ethel Kennard, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennard of Dover, N. H.

"BUMMED RIDES"

After leaving Merrimac, the girls told police, they were picked up by "two boy friends," Edward Greeley and Wallace Trefeter, who had driven them to Andover. Then they "bummed rides" on trucks towards Wilmington, they said.

PRINCIPAL'S STATEMENT

The four had $20 among them, but said they expected to secure waitress positions.

After a four-hour ride, Holbrook was the first to claim his daughter, followed shortly by Miss Kennard's father, and by relatives of the Spurr girl.

Principal W. G. Russell of Whittier school declared he had difficulty in keeping young men away from the campus, and that he had words with Miss Spurr's "boy friend," Wallace Trefeter of Merrimac. They arranged a "love code" of communication signals, it is stated, and when Trefeter drove by the school Tuesday, a signal from Miss Spurr's dormitory window told him that plans for flight were complete.

Dog Tries to Save Man From Mad Bull

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 27 (AP)—The attempt of Kelley, a nine-year-old dog, to save his master, Lee Taylor, 69, from being trampled to death by an infuriated bull was futile. Taylor died today.

While taking the three-year-old bull from the pen to feed the animal became obstinate and Taylor struck it several times on the nose. Infuriated, the bull attacked the man.

The dog, almost toothless from old age, leaped to the bull's neck, grabbed its ears with its three "good teeth" and pulled the animal away.

PAYS $27,500 FOR PRIZE MARE

Kansas City, Feb. 27 (AP)—What is believed a record price for a saddle horse has been established with the sale of "Belle Delight," from the Herbert M. Wolf stables of Kansas City to Miss Mary Fiers of Oklahoma City fr $27,500. The previous high price was $25,000 paid for "Chief of Longview," also from a Kansas City stable.

"Belle Delight," six-year-old mare, has been defeated but once, last fall at St. Louis. After that the mare swung again into a string of victories, most notable of which was the championship of the American royal show here last November. She has 31 grand championship and blue ribbons.

SAVE PATIENTS IN HOSPITAL

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 27 (AP)—Six firemen were gassed and burned today in an X-ray room fire and film explosion on the top floor of the Pritchard Memorial wing of Aston Park Hospital here. Their condition is not considered serious.

Quick action on the part of nurses and hospital officials in removing the 18 patients in the wing saved inmates of the hospital from possible injury.

The fire was believed to have started by a cigarette dropped near the steel cabinet in which the exposed X-ray films are filed. As soon as it was discovered nurses and physicians rushed to throw open windows in all the fourth floor rooms to allow the gas fumes to escape.

The X-ray cabinet and the burning films finally were hurled from the windows and the room cleared. All of the X-ray equipment was destroyed.

One woman was in the operating room at the time fire occurred. Physicians had prepared to administer an anaesthetic but the operation was postponed and the patient rushed from the building.

"Flying" Dry Men Raiding Chicopee

Chicopee, Feb. 27 (AP)—A flying squadron of federal prohibition officers under Maj. Frank Goodnough, working out of Boston, who staged ten raids in Holyoke yesterday, continued their clean-up campaign today by a descent on a number of hotels and alleged speakeasies.

By noon five places had been visited. Liquor was seized in a number of raids and two arrests were made.

Helen Holbrook, 17, daughter of George P. Holbrook, Boston and Needham attorney, and Madeline Shepherd, 17, daughter of a Lowell minister, were two of the four girls who fled from Whittier school at Merrimac. They were found in a Fitchburg hotel.

Gavel Heralds D. A. R. Broadcast Tonight

Washington, Feb. 27—The tap of a gavel, resounding throughout the land, will call to order the first of a series of remarkable radio broadcasts tonight, designed to reawaken patriotic thought in America.

Sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, the broadcast will take the form of a nation-wide mass meeting to be called to order by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president-general.

Hundreds of D. A. R. chapters will meet in cities, towns and on farms to hear a stirring message from Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, distinguished veteran of the Rainbow Division, who will be the principal speaker.

"This is in every sense an open meeting," Mrs. Hobart said. "We hope that every American, particularly every American woman, will tune in on the nearest station which carries our program.

"We feel that it is time for such a program to reach every American home. The subjects we will discuss for the next several weeks are of such vital interest and the audience which they should concern so large that we can hold our meetings in no smaller space than the whole United States itself."

The gavel will fall sharply at 7.30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time. The program will be broadcast over the NBC network on a national hookup with Washington.

Future meetings will be held weekly on Thursday evenings at the smae hour. Next Thursday the principal speaker will be former United States Sen. George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania.

Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy; Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, representative from Illinois, and Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts will be speakers during the next few weeks.

Stations broadcasting the program include:

WEAF, New York.
WJAR, Providence.
WTAG, Worcester, Mass.

EIELSON PLANE SOON TO MOVE

Motorship Nanuk, North Cape, Siberia, Feb. 27 (AP)—The bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American aviators killed in the crash of their plane Nov. 9 while on a flight from Teller, Alaska, to this icebound ship, today were formally in the keeping of their countrymen and ready for removal by air to Alaska after a ceremony in which both Russians and Americans participated.

As American and Russian flags flew at half-mast, the bodies were taken from the small hut where they had reposed since being brought to North Cape, and were placed on two sleds and covered with American flags. The sleds were drawn slowly over the ice toward the Nanuk, where a cabin plan waited to receive them. The plane was one of those rushed north while hope was yet held that the missing fliers might be found alive.

The 10 Americans from the Nanuk formed a line as the procession approached the funeral plane. Opposite them were the Russians of North Cape, including Governor Ponemarov of Chukotsk Peninsula, who had come especially for the ceremony, and those aboard the Soviet ship Stavropol, also locked in the ice here. Together with a number of wandering trappers and natives, they formed a line parallel to the Americans.

When the sleds had entered between the lines, Commander Slipenov relinquished the bodies to the American aviators. Pilot Ed Young received them on behalf of the Americans and expressed gratitude and appreciation to the Russians for the co-operation they had given.

The bodies were then placed in the plane and the cabin closed. The windows were shrouded in black.

The American planes will take off for Nome at the first favorable break in the weather, accompanied by Commander Slipenov in an escort plane. He will accompany the cortege to Fairbanks, from where the bodies will be sent by rail and steamer to the United States.

ONE SHOT FOILS MAIL BANDITS

Bayonne, N. J., Feb. 27 (AP)—One bullet put to flight a band of Postoffice robbers who made an unsuccessful attempt before dawn today to get registered mail pouches which, rumor said, contained $500,000 to pay off employes of the Tidewater and Standard Oil Companies.

The gang, whose number included one wearing the uniform of a special policeman and carrying a night stick, leaped out of the darkness upon the loading platform in the rear of the Postoffice.

John Reid, truck driver, who had just brought the mail from a New Jersey Central Railroad train arriving from New York, and Victor Orloff, were ordered into the building and placed under guard.

Anthony Kiver, another clerk, found inside the building, was forced to join the other prisoners. Both Reid and Orloff were armed, but were taken unawares, they reported.

"Where's the cop?" the robbers demanded.

"There's no cop around," the three replied.

The gunmen thereupon turned to the pouches. Just then Patrolman John Stibley walked out of the darkened building onto the platform, unaware of what was going on.

"What's this?" he shouted.

"Put 'em up," the robbers cried, firing three shots at him. Stibley retreated, drawing his gun and firing one shot. The bandits dropped the pouches and ran.

They were seen to escape in a red sedan, expensive and new. The five were later reported having stopped at a filling station for gasoline.

7 GLOUCESTER FISHMEN SAVED

Elizabeth City, N. C., Feb. 27 (AP)—Coast guard headquarters here today reported that seven men were taken off the fishing smack America, of Gloucester, Mass., aground off Little Island, Va., early today in the breeches buoy by coast guardsmen.

The America was driven ashore last night while making for shelter within the Virginia capes. If the sea subsides soon, it is believed the vessel can be hauled off intact.

Named "Miss Jacy"

Lawrence, Feb. 27—Miss Jeanne Varezeele of 73 Greenwood st. was selected as "Miss Jacy" at the dance conducted by the Jacy employes in the Arcadia ballroom.

Women Fight Women to Save the Men

Vienna, Feb. 27 (INS)—A drastic new measure designed to aid downtrodden manhood in its battle against the weaker sex has just been taken here by the World League for the Rights of Man, the ever-growing organization aimed at protecting men from the "encroachments" of women.

The women's committee, according to an official manifesto just issued, has been formed "to support the league of men in fighting against the unjust encroachments brought about by the one-sided emancipation of women."

"Modern marriage and divorce laws," the announcement continues, "favor unscrupulous women to quite an unbearable extent. This type of woman is enabled by modern alimony laws to exploit men and their families, including wives and mothers who are living up to their duties.

"Love, marriage and motherhood mean nothing to an unscrupulous woman but an opportunity to get hold of a wealthy alimony payer.

"This one-sided emancipation of women is destroying the basis of family life by reducing the value of real wifehood and motherhood. And as our whole civilization is built upon the family, the welfare of the white race is seriously endangered by the movement."

PHIL SCOTT BIG HIT AT PALM BEACH

By ELEANOR EARLY
International News Special Correspondent

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27—Most prize fighters have a battered, bulged look. Cauliflower ears and broken noses. It isn't often two handsome boys like Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott get together.

Phil is 6 feet 2, and he weighs 205. There's a trifle more of him than there is of Sharkey. But Jack has the edge on looks.

Now, a maiden's idea of a big he-man scrapper is a boyish chap like Sharkey. Mr. Scott looks more like a professor. His eyes are that new shade of blue that goes so well with sun tan. And handsome Phil is nice and brown. There used to be a floorwalker at Jordan Marsh's that looked a lot like him. That's Phil all over—a prof. or a floorwalker—or most anything but a rough, tough fighter.

HAS ENGLISH ACCENT

He talks with a decided English accent. And he's going over big in Palm Beach. They say the debutantes in [illegible] are crazy about him. They like him because he's English and everything with an accent goes at Palm Beach. A crowd of women attended his final boxing drill before Trainer Johnston called the boxing sessions off.

Clerks at Miami postoffice say that so far as fan mail is concerned Phil is a five-to-one shot over Sharkey. He gets as many letters as John Gilbert used to. Maybe that's because the girls don't know that Mister Scott is married.

Well, here's heart-breaking news, sisters. The big boy is a family man. Yes, ma'am. I saw their pictures, the wife and kids.

[illegible] Sharkey has pictures of his wife and kids plastered all over the place. He likes to rave about them. Mrs. Sharkey is a very stunning model, and Jack is tremendously proud of her. Then there are the little girls—Marilyn and Dorothy. And baby Jack, the apple of his father's eye.

Phil, it seems, has a couple of daughters, too. June and Seven, and the baby is seven months. Phil says, maybe, he may bring them to America soon for a holiday. They live just outside of London, in a place called Peacehaven, which sounds sort of restful for a prize fighter. Its a biggish place, says Philip. But he is planning to build a bigger one.

If all the seats in the Garden are sold, Scott's share of the receipts will be $94,500. And with that, England's idol could rent Buckingham Palace. Maybe they'd give it to him, if he wins.

Phil's a great boy in England. Society over there seems to have taken him up. Sir Oliver Duncan, is the titled gentleman who introduced Phil around Palm Beach.

Social functions seem to rather bore Mr. Scott. He is perfectly at ease, self-assured, and affable. He dresses as well as the Prince of Wales.

SHARKEY WELL DRESSED

He speaks quietly, with a little half smile. And he looks at you in a dreamy, contemplative sort of way. Not a bit like Sharkey, who roars a bit, and shoots those piercing stares that women fall for.

Sharkey used to be a sailor. He went to work when he was 17 years old. He was a crude youngster. Patent leather shoes, bell bottom pants, and all the rest of it.

Then he got married and his wife started showing him things. Now he's one of the best dressed men in this dressy town. Quiet, conservative. Goes mostly for dark blue. White shirts. Plain ties. Wears a dinner coat every night.

Scott is also up from the ranks. He went to work in a vegetable store when he was 10. At 13 he became a painter's assistant. During the war he served with the Royal Naval Marines. And afterward he joined Scotland Yard. Then he retired to become a fireman. That's why the boys call him Fireman Phil.

NEW BEDFORD AIR MEET APRIL 19

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Ever since the last air meet last fall, we have been counting the days until the first one of the coming spring would be announced. Here it is, and it looks like the works.

After a two-hour conference, Dave Sher, general manager of Sound Airways, of New Bedford, and Harland F. Banks, head of the National Air Pageant Association, came to terms, and the New Bedford-Fairhaven Airport will be officially opened with a two-day air meet, beginning April 19.

This date falls on Saturday and means that the people of New Bedford and surrounding towns will have nothing to do but flock out to the airport and watch the aerial whoopee.

Military service rules that no planes can be sent to an airport which has had its initial air meet, but as Sound Airways' layout is really coming into being with the forthcoming party, a couple of Marine pursuit planes can probably be obtained.

At least, Banks favors the idea, and will have more to say toward the latter part of the week, when he again goes into a huddle with Sher. If the service planes can be obtained, and it only takes one or two to give that added touch of color that makes an airport opening an A-1 affair, some of the commercial boys may have a bit of competition, but two commercial flyers in New England, with Aero sportplanes under them, can give the best of all the service flyers a run for their money.

There are several of the boys still sojourning in the Southland who will be back in the next few weeks, and who will be on deck for the airport opening. Among these boys are Charlie Arnold and Freddie Desjardin. George Watkins is already back, and is making his plans for the coming summer. We suspect that George will again be flying for a certain outfit in the middle part of the State, and will again have a cute little sport plane under him; a plane that flies equally as well upside down as it does right side up.

NIGHT EQUIPMENT READY

With the night flying equipment already installed at the Sound Airways field, and a flood light to be added shortly, there is a strong possibility of a little night aerobatics being held, along with passenger carrying. The only thing Banks is asking for at present is a break in the weather and a good big moon.

So, with this preliminary announcement of the first meet of the year, further developments are awaited from New Bedford, and we will have plenty to tell you about when Banks goes down there next week to start building the affair from the ground floor.

Not having had a plane sit in the drink around the Boston Airport for some time, it remained for one of the boys to become initiated in the "Duck Club," composed of flyers who have made forced landings in the water.

This landing was not made around Boston, but one of the Boston boys, Al Sherman, of Curtiss-Wright, turned in the trick, and was immediately elected president of the Duck Club for the coming year, besides being the first one to set a cabin job down in H2O.

Sherman was forced to land on the south side of Long Island when he ran out of gasoline, and his two parachute flares failed to show him a decent spot to plunk his Challenger engined Robin into. Al didn't even get his feet wet, while his passenger and mechanic became slightly dampened.

But the boy turned in a good job, and everybody is happy.

Four lectures on airport problems of design, construction and management for the engineer, architect and business executive will be given by Stedman S. Hanks beginning March 4, in Pierce Hall, Harvard Engineering School, according to an announcement by H. E. Clifford, acting dean of the school.

LECTURE SERIES OFFERED

The lectures should prove interesting to most of the boys in the flying business, as well as to those who are not in the racket, embracing as they do, "International Airports as Ports of Entry," to be given March 4; "The Flying Boat," March 11; "American Airports, Present and Future," March 18, and "Summary and General Discussion," March 25.

Once in a while the gang gets a thrill out of an airplane when it is sitting on the ground, and they cluster around, muttering strange sounds. This little stunt occurred when Charlie Daniels dropped in from Hartford in his Whirlwind J-5 powered Waco 10 biplane. The ship was painted two tones on the [illegible], blue on the top, and cream underneath, with wings to match. Running along the side of the fueslage was an arrow, as usual, and over the whole plane was several coats of varnish, making the entire ship glisten even when there wasn't any sun shining. A beautiful job, what we mean.

Charlie was up to say hello to Jack Moran, Federal inspector, to get his license, and after taking the exams, flitted away to Hartford.

Letters From Readers

Sees Instant Need of Sidewalk Safety

Editor Boston American:

Please consider not only the elderly folks but also the middle-aged, and the young people themselves. It is up to your powerful newspaper to call the attention of the whole population and the constituted authorities to the fact that many persons in our city during the winter may break legs, spinal columns, necks, arms, bruise their heads — become chronic invalids and in some cases actually lose their lives from icy and slippery streets, along Copps Hill and Beacon Hill.

We must at once, now, not next week or next month, but this very week start to install fence railings along the curbings of our hilly streets of Boston. Assuredly the lives of the population of Boston—yes, the life of any individual, white, black or yellow, is an extremely valuable life before God, and we will be very unworthy indeed if we don't do our utmost to safeguard the lives and limbs of our citizens.

Only this morning at the corner of Tremont row and Pemberton sq. a man who appeared to be over 60 years of age, slipped on the icy sidewalk and fell on his back and head. A young man with an elderly man was walking up the hill at that spot, and of course they played the Good Samaritan by lifting the man up.

Well, Mr. Editor, what good will all our religion avail, or what use is all our education, of what value is all our ambition, if we forget these things, take a letter of this sort, and throw it in the waste paper basket, and forget about it? Sir, we will presuppose that a given editor did throw this in the waste basket, and within a few minutes after that he would receive the painful news over the telephone, that both his own father and mother or perhaps the wife, brother, daughter, son, or very dear friend, fell on the ice. Ah! that's another story, our friend the editor, with tears in his eyes, in such a case would be asking God's forgiveness for having thrown this paper in the waste basket, and well he might, for if he would not be sorry, well, a special hell should be constructed for such a man, and he should be kept there throughout eternity. This will be enough. Signed, One who writes in the spirit of Abraham Lincoln.

Landlords Also Have Worries

Editor Boston American:

Your very able Arthur Brisbane says that editors first hand out opinions then spend the rest of their lives trying to justify those opinions. I am reminded of this as I read your editorial titled "Boston Landlords." The irony of it is that a good many of those individuals referred to as "landlords" would gladly swap jobs with their janitors! and I am curious to know how you can justify the czaristic attitude you seem to sanction in this editorial, that where property owners are in arrears on their water bills, the water should be shut off and the owners jailed for failure to furnish water—which is the law!

Well, Mr. Editor, I am one of those "covetous and recalcitrant" landlords who certainly ought to be locked up. You see, a few years ago I had the good (?) fortune to invest my savings in medium-priced real estate, having as tenants mostly working people and some small business men, and I find that as a landlord I am called upon, quite frequently, to share their burdens of unemployment, sickness, etc.

You know, of course, that there are as many self-respecting people who would rather starve to death than ask for charity. Now, Mr. Editor, as a matter of fact I have several tenants who for some reason or reasons are as much as eight and ten months in arrears on their rents and I would appreciate your enlightening me as to what would happen to those poor people if landlords would adopt the attitude you advocate and resort to law for eviction in every instance of non-payment of rent?

One does not have to look very far to see section after section with deserted, vacant flats, nor does one have to look very far to see the alarming number of foreclosure sales where owner's equities—often times their life's savings—are completely wiped out, and even mortgagees suffering greatly. Don't you think it is time for someone to say a kind word for this much abused janitor with the title "Landlord."

I trust you will, in the interests of fair play, afford space for this letter in your valuable paper of which I am a reader.

Thore Pension Bill Favored by Labor

Editor Boston American:

Our organization is behind the non-contributory Old Age Pensions Bill of Wendell P. Thore because it is the best bill before our Legislature.

Any attempt to criticize his stand for real Old Age Pensions and his positive refusal to place our aged citizens, who may need such pensions, under our Public Welfare Department with its "refined pauperism" or "pauper dole touch," as desired by Representative John V. Mahoney and some others, is to criticize us in our demand for real old age pensions.

Through a long series of years organized labor has been side by side with Mr. Thore in his unselfish efforts for such pensions. No one, more than the writer, can testify to his absolute sincerity to put into law at once a real old age pension measure. Like us, he is unwilling to deceive the people and accept a cheap "makeshift" pension scheme to please any "new glory" seekers.

The people of our Commonwealth should be glad that Mr. Thore has had the courage to stand always on a barrier against those who would deceive them in legislative matters.

INDIGESTION

For 36 years, men and women by the million have settled stomach disturbances with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. A reliable remedy; a real relief. And you have never tried them! In 1894 a druggist sold his first package of Stuart's. Today they are a drug-store staple. The first thing that comes to mind when the stomach needs a sweetener. No burning soda! Just a happy combination of Calcium Carbonate (2½ times more effective than soda) Magnesia and other valuable ingredients. In ten minutes—or less—acidity is overcome; all that sourness dispelled.

Many parents have come to realize these tablets are ideally suited to children's digestive disorders. The tremendous sale of the family size boxes is proof of that. Next time a young stomach is complaining, think of Stuart's.

MAKE THIS TEST!

Purchase a 25c, handy pocket tin of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from your druggist, use after meals and be convinced it is not necessary to suffer the distresses of indigestion.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

PRESIDENTS DAY PROGRAM IS PLANNED

EVERY year members of the Ladies' Unity Club look forward to President's Day, when the state head and representatives of the club in the district meet, exchange ideas and communicate wise and successfully triumphant suggestions for club progress.

Such a day for the Ladies' Unity Club takes place tomorrow at the Home for Aged People, 84 Bartlett st., Roxbury, which institution the club members support and maintain, at 3 p. m. Officers of the State and City Federations of Women's Clubs will welcome guests, including Mrs. Thomas G. Jack, district director; Mrs. Carl I. Watson, president, City Federation; Mrs. Arthur W. Hurlburt, president of the Unity club; Mrs. Edwin L. Kilgore and Mrs. Edward P. Rich, vice-presidents; Mrs. Nellie F. Jones, secretary; Mrs. Frank Rogers, corresponding secretary; Miss Louis T. Ogden, treasurer, and Mrs. Avard H. Nichols, past president.

A musical program followed by a social hour for which Mrs. John A. Tull is hostess, is scheduled. The arrangement committee included Mrs. Arthur H. Kellum and Mrs. E. J. Blakeney. Flowers and decorations, Mrs. Ethel Rogers Lambert, chairman of home; Mrs. Joseph H. Prescott, Mrs. Christine S. Walker and Mrs. William D. King.

Twenty-eight years ago the club organized, taking as its chief philanthropy the upkeep and maintenance of the Home for Aged People. It is a worthy institution.

The club affiliated itself with the State Federation in 1911 and with the General Federation in 1923. They hold monthly meetings and sponsor bridge and whist parties in the financial interest of the fund for the home.

WINCHENDON WOMAN'S CLUB

Legislative Day will be observed by the club tomorrow afternoon in Unity Hall at 3 p. m. Mrs. Frederick E. Judd of Southampton, wife of Senator Judd of the Southampton district and a member of the Children's Welfare Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League, will make the principal address. Mrs. Judd is also vice-chairman of the Legislative Department of the State Federation.

Selectman Charles M. Day is to speak briefly on the civic matters the day following the club meeting. Mardis Brown will present the musical program. Hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. Carl Tornquist and Mrs. Joseph Mayer, Jr.

NEW ENGLAND WOMEN'S CLUB

Prof. George H. Blakeslee, who holds a chair in history and international relations at Clark University, Worcester, will address the club next Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Crystal Room of the Hotel Kenmore. "The Kyoto Conference" is to be his subject. The Current History Committee, Mrs. Charles Holyoke, chairman, has charge.

Professor Blakeslee spoke at the Worcester Woman's Club on the same subject, where his knowledge of Chinese and Japanese situations was shown.

Mrs. John C. Jones, Jr., press correspondent, announces that the Junior French Class and the Beginners' French Class will combine under the beginners' class with Mrs. Robert F. Read as leader. It will meet Thursday at 10 a. m.

Monday the Ethics Class of Mrs. Georgianna W. Mank, leader, will discuss "Art of Thinking" by Dimnet. The meeting starts at 1 p. m. At the meeting of the Botany group a paper by the late Miss Cora H. Clarke on New England sea weeds, illustrated by specimens from the collection of Mrs. Read, will be presented. Mrs. Bertha N. Atwell is in charge of the tea which follows the lecture and Mrs. Samuel E. Killam and Mrs. Charles J. Hargreaves will pour.

WEST ROXBURY WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. John S. H. Leare will open her home next Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. to a class of 16 members which will meet for the third lesson in contract bridge. Another course will be arranged if sufficient interest is shown, Mrs. Norman H. Hastings, chairman of the American Home Committee, announces.

The Library Shakespeare class will meet next Thursday morning at 10:30 in Library Hall to hear, read and discuss "Two Gentlemen of Verona." Mrs. Harold H. Martin will lead the discussion. On Friday, March 7, the club chorus will meet at 10 a. m. in Library Hall to prepare for March concerts scheduled under the direction of Mrs. Erdine E. Oedel.

At this early date, the club has selected Mrs. William O. E. Little, club president, to represent the West Roxbury Woman's Club at the Biennial Convention in Denver next June.

Miss Nora A. Brophy, press chairman, announces the request of Mrs. Edward Pike, philanthropy chairman, who wishes contribution of old and new cloth, including discarded dresses, that children might make use of in the school sewing classes.

SALEM WOMAN'S CLUB

An interesting feature is scheduled for the meeting of the club March 5, when Carla Ryder, New York style consultant, speaks on "Keeping Up Versus Settling Down," at Academy Hall, at 3 p. m.

Laura E. McMasters, chairman of the American home committee of the State Federation, and Mrs. Ralph H. Reed, former chairman of the same department, are invited. Lucy Adams Dennett is to play violin selections. The afternoon's program is in charge of Mrs. F. Lawrence Howie, the club chairman of the same department.

PEABODY WOMAN'S CLUB

A fashion show is to feature the meeting of the club to be held in the South Church vestry, Friday, March 7. The models and clothes are to be furnished by a local department store.

AUBURNDALE WOMAN'S CLUB

At a joint meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club and the Business and Professional Group, Thursday, March 6, a dramatic program will be presented at 8 p. m. in the clubhouse. Two plays will be given, coached by the chairman of the dramatic committee, Mrs. Edwin M. Prellwitz and Mrs. John F. Holmes. Miss Sally E. Turner is chairman of drama in the Business and Professional Group. Mrs. Bernice Keach Ripley, soprano, will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Frieda Rich.

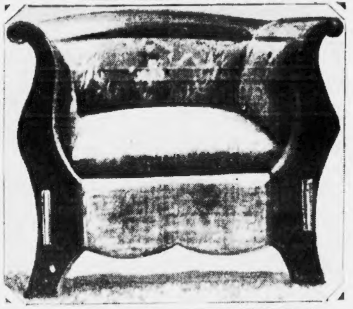
DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 33



Here is a piece of early American furniture construction which is of a type all its own. It is an old Southern fireside chair, whose name describes its purpose and its customary location.

The fireside chair is of maple and is upholstered with tapestry. The covering shown is believed to be the original. The sturdy legs are angled, and the entire construction is sound and rugged. This chair is owned by Mrs. Paul E. Christopher of Scottsville, N. Y., an ardent and discerning collector of unusual pieces.

This type of chair will be further discussed by an expert in tomorrow's American.

Readers have expressed some surprise over the Rev. Harry Taylor's reference to the Scotch clockmaker, W. Taylor of Dumfries, Scotland, as the brother-in-law of John Paul Jones. America's first and possibly most brilliant naval hero was a Scot by birth.

He was born in Arbigland Estate, County Kirkcudbright, July 6, 1747. His family name was Paul and he later assumed the surname Jones, some say, in honor of a Virginia family, and others in order to inherit the estate of his brother who had taken the name Jones previously. Apparently Clockmaker Taylor married a sister of John Paul, since the sailor never married. His one great passion was a lovely French woman.

Mr. Taylor does not say whether the maker of the clock is one of his own ancestors. The clock itself is an almost exact counterpart in design to one dating from about 1775 which was owned by Capt. Thomas Marshall of Washington, Ky., and of Virginia, who was a brother of Chief Justice Marshall. The latter clock is of cherry and pine, with satinwood inlay.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

RADIO TALKS ON EDUCATION 'TOO SUGAR COATED'

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—Secretary Wilbur's advisory committee on radio education has found that one of the chief objections to microphonic instruction is that "educational broadcasts, sandwiched in between sales talks on cigarettes and lipsticks, need to be so sugar-coated they lose most of their educational value."

The committee, composed of educators, radio officials and prominent broadcasters, has been given the task of evolving methods for the promotion of educational broadcasting to schools and classrooms throughout the country.

Summarized the objections raised to radio as a medium of bringing education to adults are:

The average person does not want education and resents the implication that he needs it; the effects of educational talks are largely passive; radio talks encourage the fallacy that listening signifies the acquisition of learning, and the radio bars all teachers except those who have good delivery.

The advantages of radio, which the committee says probably more than offset the disadvantages, are set out as follows:

It democratizes higher learning by removing obstacles that now make it available only to a small percentage of Americans, and brings it to all ages, sexes, colors, races, creeds and people in all stations of economic conditions. It carries the lessons of great teachers to multitudes of listeners.

It multiplies "incalculably the effective reach of the endowment dollar" by eliminating the need of expensive halls. It provides the swiftest means yet known for the spread of ideas, opens the treasures of the universities to all on the same conditions and increases the public appreciation of education.

GENE TUNNEY WILL ENTER BUSINESS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP)—Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, plans to "get well," he said today, and then go into "some business."

Convalescing from a recent operation performed in New York, the man who left the ring and the championship behind 18 months ago looked forward with keen anticipation to seeing the heavyweights, who seek the honor he has discarded, do battle tonight.

He has not had on a boxing glove since he climbed between the ropes at the Yankee Stadium in 1928 after his farewell bout with the rugged Tom Heeney as his last victim.

"After a man has been knocked down," said Tunney, "the most important thing for him to do is to get up. After a man has an operation his most important consideration should be to get well."

There was no sign of the invalid about the former champion as he walked into the home of one of his oldest friends at Miami Beach, where he did much of winter conditioning when he was the ruling king of the heavyweight group.

He carried a cane to bolster a side weakened by the surgeon's knife, but the supporting stick seemed to apologize for its presence. There was no semblance of excess poundage, and in fact Gene reported his weight 192 pounds, the figure at which he boxed at his best.

With the cares and annoyances of the championship behind him, Tunney was the "old Tunney" of Speculator and Stroudsburg before he won the title from Jack Dempsey. The same bright twinkle was in his eye and as he talked of boxers and boxing he suddenly became serious as he concentrated on driving home the exact shade of meaning he wished to emphasize.

"A really game boxer never hears the count of ten," he said. "If he can hear, he will get up." And again "the boxer who knows his business, after he has been knocked down, remains down until the count of nine. That nine seconds belongs to him, not to his opponent. It is his and his alone and he has the right to it to clear his head. Only a foolish person, with perhaps some false pride, comes bounding to his feet before he has had his nine seconds rest. Probably he will be knocked down again, and then he may not be able to get up."

Mrs. Hoover and Mme. Curie Are Tied in Heroine Vote

Denver, Feb. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover and Mme. Curie tied in a vote taken among delegates to the National Pan-Hellenic Congress for the honor of being most worthy as heroines of the modern American co-ed.

Helen Keller, blind philosopher and author, and Helen Wills were among those who received votes.

Canada Lumber Men Rap U. S. Liquor Ban

Montreal, Feb. 27 (AP)—Proposed legislation prohibiting clearance papers for liquor shipments from Canadian points to the United States was denounced at the annual meeting of the Quebec Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

It was stated that such refusal would cost Canada $2.30 per capita in lost revenue. In the wooden box industry alone the distillers use 16,000,000 million board feet annually, it was said.

A Peasant Discovers a Wonderful Remedy for Skin Troubles

In olden times, before the days of science and doctors, the common people of all countries had certain home-made remedies that they used with good effects.

Just why certain plants, herbs and roots have the power to cure disease the peasants didn't know. Nature doesn't tell her secrets.

For hundreds of years there has flourished along the Mediterranean Sea a shrub belonging to the Juniper family called by the scientists Juniperus Oxycedrus. Some way or other the peasants living there found that the heart wood of this shrub contained an oil that possessed remarkable healing and soothing virtues. They discovered that in nearly all diseases of the skin it stopped the itching almost instantly, and rapidly healed the sore, irritated and inflamed places. In due course of time this oil came to be known as Cade Oil and has been so called ever since. Perhaps no other remedy supplied by Nature is quite so effective as Cade Oil, for it rarely fails.

An able chemist, some years ago, conceived the idea of combining Oil of Cade with other antiseptic and healing ingredients, and making an ointment that the general public could buy at a low price and use to cure skin diseases. This Remedy he called Cadum Ointment, because Oil of Cade was one of the important ingredients.

People found in Cadum Ointment instant relief from itching and a quick healing of the skin in nearly every form of skin trouble. There are so many names given to skin diseases that it is useless to print them all here, and it isn't necessary, for Cadum Ointment can be depended upon to bring speedy relief.

GERMAN GIRLS CAUSE TUMULT

Berlin, Feb. 27 (AP)—An extraordinary tumult occurred today at the Lehrter railway terminal here when 15 girls under the leadership of an older woman entrained for Hamburg, whence they will sail for Buenos Aires under contracts as dancers.

Relatives gathered at the station and vainly besought the girls—all of whom were over 21 years of age—not to go. A violent altercation ensued between some of the parents and male friends of the girls, and the woman leader.

The Argentine consul-general said he had refused visas to the girls and had advised Argentine consuls en route to hold them up if possible. He believed the party might get as far as Montevideo before meeting any barrier, but he said the Buenos Aires police had been instructed to refuse them admission.

German authorities were unable to interfere as the girls were of age.

9 Hurt in Brazil in Election Riots

Montevideo, Uruguay, Feb. 27 (AP)—Advices received here from the Brazilian frontier tell of considerable political agitation and friction in the state of Rio Grande do Sul growing out of the campaign for election of a Brazilian President March 1.

A clash occurred near Bage between followers of the candidates, Julio Prestes, actual President of the state of Rio Grande do Sul—and Getulio Vargas. Nine of the combatants were seriously wounded.

In Santa Ana federal troops arrested four sergeants in Prestes' forces, and in Santa Maria nine persons were accused of open revolutionary propaganda.

50 STRIKE AS PAY IS CUT

Fifty piece workers employed at the Kerstein leather factory, in Walnut st., Peabody, are out on strike, and today a picket line was established in front of the factory.

More than 200 men are employed at the factory. Those on strike declare that they have been given a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Mayor Leo Sullivan of Peabody made an attempt to bring about a settlement but without success.

Peabody police had several officers on duty today at the plant. Chief Edward Peirce declared that peaceful picketing is O. K., but he will not tolerate mass picketing or baiting.

DREAM SMOKES NEW DRUG MENACE

By WINIFRED BLACK

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—So it's the old, old story over again—a woman of position and reputation sinking into the mire of dope slavery.

A good home, a good husband, two lovely children, a fine circle of devoted friends all thrown aside like so much rubbish just for the sake of "dope."

A year or so ago the same thing happened in New England, and in Chicago, two highly educated clubwomen went through the same hideous torment and died in disgrace. Both of these women happened to be physicians, and officers of one of the greatest clubs in America.

One of the best known actresses in the world, one of the most popular story writers in America, the young wife of a successful musician, one of the most brilliant lawyers in California, a lawyer close to the top of the profession in Chicago—oh, it doesn't stay down in the slums, this dope we're beginning to hear so much about.

"Silly smoke."

What do you know about "silly smoke?"

You and your nice kindly, lighthearted friends, you and your good, comfortable, respectable neighbors?

Nothing at all!

I wouldn't be too sure about that.

How about that 17-year-old boy that was so good natured and easy going, and full of boyish tricks, and fun a year ago?

What's turning him so sullen and so irritable and ill natured all of a sudden?

How about that girl, the pretty little girl you are all so fond of?

How bright her eyes were six months ago, how she loved to dance and she was always singing and practicing new dance steps and laughing and talking over the phone and making what she persisted in calling "dates" with girls and boys she had known and you had known ever since she began to talk.

The color is going from her cheeks, her eyes look strange, sometimes they are too bright and sometimes they seem to look out through a kind of haze.

She forgets things, she's "too tired" to go dancing, and she's always smoking.

The boy is also smoking, too—cigarettes!

Yes, but what kind of cigarettes?

They make marijuana into cigarettes nowadays.

Oh, yes, plenty of marijuana cigarettes on the market—they call them "silly smokes," when they sell them.

Marijuana is really hasheesh—an American hasheesh.

In India, in the Malay peninsula they call hasheesh the "murder drug," and we are beginning to hear the American hasheesh, marijuana called "murder smoke" here in police circles.

The police know all about murder smoke.

42,000 in Chicago to Be Paid Saturday

Chicago, Feb. 27 (AP)—Paychecks by Saturday were virtually assured today. After weeks of patient waiting, the 42,000 employes of the city, county and school board, were informed by collectors of the rescue fund that six millions more were needed before the pay-off parade begins.

Philip R. Clarke, head of the collectors, had nearly $44,000,000 in pledges in the till as today's canvassing began and it has been promised that the checks will be issued as soon as $50,000,000 is pledged.

400 AIR PILOTS DISCIPLINED IN SAFETY DRIVE

Washington, Feb. 27 (INS).—Determined to increase the safety of aeronautical transportation, the Commerce Department disciplined more than four hundred airplane pilots last year, it was announced today.

Licenses of 16 pilots were revoked, 110 suspended, and 145 pilots reprimanded for a wide range of offenses against the air commerce act. A total of 523 violations of the law were investigated, fines of $4745 having been assessed in 170 cases. Fifty-five complaints were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Offenses including unauthorized acrobatics, low flying, flying without navigation lights and numbers, and operation of planes by unlicensed pilots.

In nearly 80 per cent of all accidents reported last year it developed that personnel was responsible. Official figures attributed 13 per cent of the accidents to engine failures, over 3 per cent to structural failures in planes, 9 per cent to miscellaneous causes including weather, darkness and airport terrain, and the remainder due to undetermined causes.

"From the figures it is apparent there is very little mystery as to the causes of aircraft accidents," the department said. "These figures enable the government, flying schools, aircraft operating companies, pilots and mechanics, manufacturers and engineers to take corrective steps," the department said.

Afghanistan's Got Another War Going

London, Feb. 27 (INS)—Afghanistan, land of the Khyber Pass and home of the most warlike nomad tribes in the East, is again on the verge of civil war, according to dispatches from the Northwest frontier.

There is grave possibility of a recurrence of the uprising of a year ago, which eventually led to the flight of King Amanullah and his abdication. Two restless tribes are said to be challenging the authority of King Nadir Khan, who defeated and executed the bandit King Bacha-i-Sakao. Fierce fighting is reported.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body In Splendid Condition—Free From Fat

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world — they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one — the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fibre in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger — eyes will brighten — step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

FOUR VINCENT SHOW GROUPS SELECTED

THE CAST FOR FOUR NUMBERS of "Vincent Virtues and Vices" has been chosen. After three days of tryouts and selecting the most accomplished steppers out of more than 100 excellent dancers, George M. Miles, the producer, today announced the following four groups to take part in the Vincent Club Show on March 13, 14 and 15 at the Arlington Theater: For the "Red and Black Steppers," Miss Nancy Hallowell, Miss Barbara Wendell, Miss Phyllis Ellsworth, Miss Elizabeth Saltonstall, Mrs. William C. Cox (Jessie Bancroft), Miss Barbara Welch, Miss Anstiss Boyden, Miss Rosamond Musgrave, Miss Annette Trafford, Miss Polly Winslow, Miss Constance Harper and Miss Anne Sutton.

THE "MOONLIGHT BALLET" will be presented by Miss Abby [illegible], Miss Anstiss Boyden, Miss [illegible], Miss Catharine [illegible], Miss Elizabeth Havey, Miss Rosamond Musgrave, Miss [illegible] and Miss [illegible]. The "Apple Blossom [illegible]" will be danced by Miss Alice [illegible], Miss Nancy Hallowell, Miss Constance Harper, Miss Justine Prince, Miss Anne Sutton, Miss Helena Thompson, Miss Annette Trafford and Miss Polly Winslow.

FIFTEEN CLEVER GIRLS will display their skill as "Strutters" in another lively number. These are Miss [illegible], Miss Phyllis [illegible], Miss Ruth Lovering, Miss [illegible] Frothingham, Miss [illegible], Mrs. Frances Lee [illegible] 2d, Miss Joan [illegible], Miss Laura Rabbins, Miss [illegible] Powers, Miss Elizabeth Saltonstall, Miss Mary Vance, Miss Kathleen Watson, Miss Elizabeth Wheeler and Misses Susan and Martha Wigglesworth.

PROBABLY IN NO OTHER spot in Boston is so much youthful gaiety and enthusiasm gathered daily as is found in the Princess Ballroom at the Somerset, where these girls rehearse from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Only one hour out for lunch is permitted and this routine must go on every day, including Sundays, until the curtain falls upon the performances on the 15th of March. The scene is a tonic to young and old alike, as the girls pirouette in gay little rompers, shorts, ballet skirts and overalls, in all materials from checked ginghams to luxurious satins. And, although their work is strenuous, every deb seems to thoroughly enjoy it.

INCIDENTALLY SEVERAL OF the Vincent Club girls who are so assiduously practicing for the annual revue are included in the cast of the operetta, "Trial by Jury," a Gilbert and Sullivan production, which will be presented at the Milton Club on Friday evening, March 21, and Saturday matinee. Miss Rose Bryant, Miss Elizabeth [illegible], Miss Alice Dalton, Miss Constance Harper, Miss Laura Rabbins and the Misses Susan and Martha Wigglesworth are those taking singing and dancing roles.

A SMART AUDIENCE IS ASSURED for the Statler Morning Musicales next season since word has gone out that the ticket limit has almost been reached. After 750 season tickets have been sold no more will be available, it was announced by Mrs. John Myers, for the executive committee, following the Gigli concert at the Statler. Already more than 600 season tickets have been disposed of to a distinguished patronage. In the audience that enthusiastically received Beniamino Gigli and Anna Fitziu, soprano, were noted Mrs. Godfrey Cabot, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mrs. Roger [illegible], Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edwards of Dedham, Mrs. Bradley Dewey and Mrs. Huntington Faxon of Cambridge, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Farrington, S. Prescott Bigelow, Mrs. Harold McNeil and Mrs. Thomas J. Proctor, Jr., of Wenham, Mrs. Charles Weld, Mrs. James Lawrence, Mrs. William Morton Wheeler and Mrs. William Ladd also were present.

A CHARMING GROUP OF Junior League members, headed by Miss Nancy Adams, ushered at the musicale. Miss Adams was assisted by Miss Nancy Loring, Miss Pauline De Friez, Miss Caroline Read, Mrs. Oliver P. Rodman, Miss Rose Bryant, Miss Katharine Hamlin, Miss Betty Hobbs, Miss Margery Fay, Miss Susan Bradlee and Miss Sarah Bradlee. Mrs. Matthew Whittal, a member of the executive committee, entertained 20 of her Worcester friends at luncheon at the Statler following the concert.

MISS DOROTHY CORNISH and Miss Priscilla Cornish of Beacon st., assisted by Miss Elizabeth Zeigler, sub-debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zeigler of New York, are busily engaged all this week in promoting the sale of wrought iron lighting fixtures made in the North Bennet Street Industrial School. The committee on industries is directing the sale for the benefit of that institution. On this committee is Mrs. Richard Eaton, Mrs. George H. Lyman, Jr., Mrs. Henry L. [illegible] and Mrs. Holden McGinley.

Betty Alden

Miss Phyllis Ellsworth Miss Anstiss Boyden

Miss Phyllis Ellsworth and Miss Anstiss Boyden have chosen for the cast of the "Red and Black Steppers" in the "Vincent Virtues and Vices" Revue to be staged at the Arlington Theater on March 13, 14 and 15.

ALLEN GUEST AT C. U. BALL

More than 1000 persons including Governor and Mrs. Frank G. Allen, attended the annual ball of Catholic Union of Boston, of which Cardinal O'Connell is honorary president. The ball was held in Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Among others present were Lieutenant-Governor William S. Youngman, President Gaspar G. Bacon of the State Senate, Col. John H. Hughes, U. S. A., chief of staff of First Corps Area; Lieut.-Col. William T. Hoadley, commanding officer of the Marine Corps in Boston; Capt. John J. Hyland, U. S. N., of Boston Navy Yard; Mayors Richard M. Russell of Cambridge, John J. Murphy of Somerville, Michael H. O'Neil of Everett and Patrick J. Duane of Waltham.

In addition the consuls of Germany, Italy, Portugal, Belgium and Spain were there.

Before dancing began the Guards gave a drill which was applauded heartily. Later they participated in the dancing and their uniforms added a touch of color to the assembly.

GRADS CONFER AT RADCLIFFE

The two-day conference of Radcliffe representatives opened at Radcliffe College this morning, with delegates from 41 graduate classes, the four undergraduate classes and the 26 Radcliffe clubs present.

The officers of the college and officers and chairmen of the standing committees of the Alumnae Association also attended. The purpose of the conference is to bring closer relations between the administration, the student body and former students, and to suggest new lines for alumnae activity.

The Radcliffe Club of Boston, Mrs. Robert B. Ames of Wayland, president, is hostess to the delegates.

Today's program includes a business meeting, tea as the guest of the president and a dinner at Briggs Hall.

Tomorrow the program includes talks by the students and dean on college life, luncheon as guests of the Radcliffe Club of Boston, an afternoon address by President Ada Comstock and the election of officers.

George H. Putnam, Publisher, 83, Dies

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—George Haven Putnam, 83, president of G. P. Putnam's Sons, publishers, died today of pernicious anaemia. He had been ill for two weeks.

Mr. Putnam was a Civil War veteran, having risen from the rank of private to that of major in the 176th New York Volunteers. During the winter of 1864-1865 he was a prisoner in both Libby and Danville (Va.) Confederate prisons.

GIGLI HUMOR PLEASING TO AUDIENCE

By MOSES SMITH

BENIAMINO GIGLI, Metropolitan Opera tenor, was the featured artist in the fifth of the season's Statler Morning Musicales, sponsored by the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. Good singing and good voices are at such a premium nowadays that Gigli's coming constituted, in some respects, one of the events of the season.

Not that we are likely to wax lyrical over a singer who, essentially, does not take his art seriously. When he would display emotion in an Italian aria or quasi-folk-song, he tends to excess—of the kind familiar on the variety stage and on Italianate operatic stage, as well. When he would sing in half-voice—and he can do so beautifully—he tends often to lachrymose falsetto.

It is discouraging to watch great artists emulating the worst tricks of song pluggers rather than their best—as, for example, clear enunciation. Despite these things, however, Gigli's performance gave great pleasure. His voice is still in the noon of its power and beauty. He is master of vocal technique, so that he can do approximately what he wishes.

Donizetti's "Una furtiva lagrima" was sung in the most classic style. Less pure, but worthwhile, was his rendering of "Dalla sua pace" from Mozart's "Don Giovanni." The high point of expressive song was probably reached in an arrangement of Liszt's "Liebestraum" in A-flat, with words by the singer. On the other hand, Grieg's "Dream" suffered from the common fault of a singer unable, or unwilling, to master a slight rhythmic difficulty.

The audience, which was a large one, applauded enthusiastically, appreciating the artistry and good-humor of the tenor. Anna Fitziu, soprano, was heard in the nature of a "comeback" role, singing two groups of songs. Her program was not impressive.

New York safety conference heard sad news yesterday from Dr. DeBlois, engineer of the National Casualty and Surety underwriters.

Of all that fell or jumped from windows in 1929, 57 per cent died in New York city.

And, according to this safety engineer, a New York earthquake might be "the worst cataclysm since the flood."

It wouldn't be necessary for skyscrapers to fall down. They would rock, shake off their outer coverings of brick and tile, and "all our industrial profits and real estate earnings would not pay the losses of the cleaning and rebuilding expenses."

Bridge Gown Latest Addition for Your Wardrobe

THIS is certainly an age of specialization, as one popular writer has recently emphasized. But who, a few years ago, would have expected our gowns to become so highly specialized? We used to be content with a "morning" dress, an afternoon dress, an evening dress. Now look at our wardrobe! It is filled with definite frocks for definite hours of the day. There is the tea gown, the hostess gown, the Sunday supper gown, the restaurant gown—and now is added the bridge gown.

This is not, in this year of grace and dignity, just simply an afternoon gown—the simple thing of crepe de chine, with which we used to be content. No—it is a frock that has become intricate in cut and formal in material.

PICTURED is a frock of chiffon, fashionable because of its sheer material, striking coloring and unusual sleeve treatment. The frock is of brown chiffon, the upper portion form fitted by rows of fine shirring, the skirt composed of three flounces.

The intricate sleeves are of orange color chiffon, with crystal beading at their joining the brown chiffon sleeve top, and further high-lighted by an applique design of bowknot of crystals. The sleeves are shirred closely at the wrist, the shirring ending in deep puffs. Simulated posies, one of brown, the other of orange chiffon, finish the becoming V neckline.

The model is wearing two baguette crystal bracelets, and one strap pumps of brown suede, trimmed in plain and pressed brown kidskin.

SLEEVES are especially versatile, so much so that they are this season an important fashion in themselves. The long, sheer sleeve gathered at the wrist is both feminine and formal and is much seen at smart dinners and afternoon affairs.

Fashion is such a lady that handkerchiefs have become more and more ornamental rather than mere utilitarian squares of linen. But ladylike or not, they are becoming more modern in design. A modernistic kerchief from Paris wears an all-over pattern inspired by the Eiffel Tower, printed in two shades of brown with black on white.

Of Japanese inspiration is another handkerchief that wears a fantastic little cockatoo with a background of dainty foliage as a corner design. A large square of batiste in a very light shade is another new note in handkerchiefs which may be worn smartly as kerchiefs with white tennis frocks.

WHETHER it is the influence of "quaint" fashions or the vogue for black and white that has brought it about, jet jewelry has returned to the mode. It is a clever complement to the black lace or black chiffon frock and looks extremely smart with some prints. Of course it is an excellent choice for the black and white costume and makes a striking accent for the pastel frock.

Pearls retain their popularity. A new pearl necklace made of woven strands of seed pearls is designed in cravat style and is adjustable so that one end may be worn casually over one shoulder.

Rhubarb Pie?

Cut rhubarb into inch lengths to make a quart, and place in the lower crust in the pie tin. Sprinkle a mixture of 2 tablespoonfuls cornstarch and pinch of salt over the rhubarb. Cover with a top crust and bake at 450° for about 15 minutes. Finish at 350°.

RHUBARB PIE without sugar! Imagine it. Yet you would have such a pie, in all its sourness, if you used this recipe. Two cups of sugar are needed.

Many meals served today in countless homes are unpalatable and lacking in enjoyment because sugar has been left out. Vegetables are flat, fruits are sour and cereals tasteless. Try a dash of sugar on these most essential foods and see how much better they taste.

Sugar on protective foods makes them a pleasing carrier of the roughage, mineral salts and vitamins they contain. It does not change in any way their delicate, valuable elements.

Think of this as you plan your meals. Make meals not only nourishing, but pleasant, with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Tigers Tilt With Indians on Hub Garden Ice Tonight

WIN IS VITAL TO STANDING OF HUB SIX

LINEUPS IN GARDEN

BOSTON		SPRINGFIELD
Loucks, Osborne	lw.	rw., Seibert, Filkin
Waite, Burke	c.	c., Carrigan, Maracle
Boyd, Manning	rw.	lw., Dillon, Heximer
Mackey, Contant	ld.	rd., McGowan, Davey
Foster, Oatman	rd.	ld., Callighen, Murphy
Reaume	g.	g., Lamontagne

Game starts at 8:30. Referees—Shaver and McKenzie.

BOSTON TIGERS, having won seven of their past nine games, brimming with confidence and at the peak of physical condition, seek tonight to tighten their grip on second place in the Canadian-American Hockey League when they meet Springfield Indians in the Garden.

The Indians have made rather poor progress in the league this season, but from the start have been the toughest team of all for the Tigers to beat.

The Bengals have walloped the Philadelphia Arrows and the New Haven Eagles, their closest competitors for playoff position, each three straight.

They have had no such luck against the Indians, though they did beat them, 4 to 0, in the last game in Boston.

WIN IMPORTANT

A repetition of that victory is of paramount importance to the Boston team at this time, for the Can-Am race for playoff positions continues to be hot, with Philadelphia and New Haven close on Boston's heels.

The Tigers are in condition to play their best hockey.

Yip Foster, big defense man who came to the Tigers from the New York Rangers two weeks ago, will be playing his first game against his former Springfield pals. He broke into professional hockey and played throughout last season with the Indians.

Manager Eddie Powers plans to start Foster at right defense beside Reg Mackey. The latter at last has struck his scoring stride and his shot has been rattling by the goal tenders with regularity in recent games.

FOSTER SCORES OFTEN

He is now leading the defense men of the league in scoring by a wide margin.

Deacon Waite, the galloping halfpin of hockey and top scorer of the Can-Am loop, will be at center, with Johnny Loucks and Yank Boyd on the wings.

Orville Heximer, the young left winger whom the Rangers recently sent to Springfield, has been going well and may start in place of Cecil Dillon.

Gene Garrigan, center, is the dangerous scorer of the Indians. He has risen in the list until he threatens to oust Art Chapman of Providence from second place.

Manager Sheldon H. Fairbanks of the Garden has arranged to broadcast returns of the Sharkey-Scott fight over the Garden loud speaker.

Hub Schools Use Recommended Rules

The intercollegiate swimming rules recommended for school competition are the rules that have been in the Boston school sports since their start.

Until this year boys have been allowed to compete in two events and the relay contest as well. This year boys are limited to two events, including the relay.

Heavy Stars Say They Are Set to Go

Statement of Sharkey

"I am prepared to put up the best fight of my ring career against Phil Scott tonight. I am not underrating the Briton. I will go after him in the hope of terminating the fight with an early knockout," said Jack Sharkey today.

Statement of Scott

"Sharkey is an overwhelming favorite to win over me tonight, but I will upset the predictions by defeating the American. My experience in the ring will enable me to keep Sharkey in check," said Phil Scott today.

AMERICAN CHAMP FACES ENGLISH BATTLER TONIGHT

Scott 8 Lbs. Heavier Than Jack Sharkey

Scott had nothing to say, and went through the formalities in an aloof and dignified manner.

Sharkey did not encounter his opponent in the boxing commission's offices. They will not see each other until they climb into the ring for the main go, at about 10 o'clock tonight.

Johnny Risko of Cleveland, who boxes Vittorio Campolo, champion of Argentine, followed Sharkey on the scales. Risko weighed 195. Campolo weighed 226.

Jimmy Maloney of Boston, who fights Moise Bouquillon of France, was the next on the scales. Maloney's weight was 198, 13 pounds more than his rival, who weighed 185 pounds.

Then came Bill Daring, the United States Navy champion, who meets Raoul Bianchi of the Argentine. Daring tipped the beam at 190.

Clear weather and mild temperature was predicted for the bout.

Looking over the pair as they weighed in, your correspondent is firmly convinced that Jack Sharkey will knock Shuffling Philip Scott flat this evening. The American champion will flail his way to the step next to the throne in one of the quickest knockouts that ring history ever has known.

We say this freely and casually, having observed both sturdy young men in their workouts for the past week.

Sharkey to us looks like one of the greatest fighters that ever came down the line. Phillup looks like the worst bust that the heavyweight game has ever known. The Englishman has trained himself into a defensive genius. He has worked here for three weeks, always backing away and stabbing and punching off balance.

To your correspondent, he looks like the world's greatest setup, for a left hook or a right cross that ever came along. If Jack Sharkey does not knock Phillup dead in a couple of rounds this evening, your correspondent will retire to Bimini.

This fight of the Palms is going to be a much bigger money proposition than any of the experts thought. There were $60,000 in cash dropped into the box offices yesterday. The horde of visitors have been infected with the fight fever. The boys and girls are marching up to the ticket windows this last day just as they did a year ago. There will, as we see things, be the greatest last day ticket sale in all the records.

Phillup Scott will have all his cherios knocked down his throat and get himself one hundred thousand for taking the rap. Phillup, like Sharkey, gets 25 per cent of the gate, if said gate goes over 300 grand, and the box office drive this morning indicated that it will do that little thing.

The sun-tanned sluggers worked out lightly yesterday and were lazing around today, eager and anxious to have it all over and done with. Scott just wants to collect the money, while Sharkey is flaming to get himself a step higher in the trail to glory.

Phillip, we think, expects to be knocked dead. Sharkey knows, in his heart, that he is headed for a quick victory. There never were two fighters more in accord on the battling proposition than this pair.

The betting on this fight is practically nil. Sharkey is a six-to-one favorite wherever Scott money can be found, said spots being very rare. All the short change artists and gamblers in the world are gathered in Miami today and the wise boys are around offering two to one that the Newton squire will flatten the suffling Englishman and finding no takers.

Sharkey never has been a sure thing before. He has gone into a flock of fights with the cards stacked against him, he has learned that he must punch his own way through to fame.

The boys gave Jack the works so often that he discovered he must rely on himself. He wasn't supposed to have a chance against Maloney or Loughran over in New

Scott Confident As Fight Time Nears

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27—In this corner, ladies and gentlemen, we have the pugilistic pride of the British Empire, and the heavyweight champion of all England—Phil Suffling Scott.

(Professor, let us have a little of that "God Save the King" business.)

Over here, ladies and gentlemen, we have Sharkey of Boston, Mass., defender of the fistic honor and prestige of the good old United States of America.

(Professor, give us the same tune over again, only call it "My Country 'Tis of Thee.")

It's post time for the second annual muss of Miami. We meet once more under that well known Florida moon tonight in a nice new pine saucer not far from the heart of the town, to see the semifinal of the long drawn out tourney for the vacated heavyweight crown of Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly Gene.

AND before I forget it, let me say that Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly Gene, in the very flesh, may be at the ringside giving the gladiators his very iciest stare.

I make bold to say that Phil, the fainter, will enter the ring the longest shot in many years' history of the sour science in a fight of this importance.

Yet, Phil himself, the first English heavyweight since the days of Charley Mitchell, to fight on Florida soil in a battle that approximates championship potentialities, remained serenely confident today that he will upset the form.

Sharkey of Boston emitted what amounted to a sniff when informed of Scott's confidence. He will undoubtedly assault Phil with great violence at the opening bell, and endeavor to make it snappy.

HE is going out there to take a good healthy slug or two at the Britisher before Phil can get his twitching nerves settled down.

"Well," says Phil, "I saw 'im fight Loughran, hand hif 'e tries to chuck 'is tight' and at me the way 'e did hat Tommy hi'll knock 'is bloomin' bean hoff."

It is hard to believe, listening to Philip's braggadocio, that this is the same Scott who swooned before Otto von Porat on slight provocation.

The winner of the fight tonight will take part in the final bout for the vacated heavyweight title with Herr Max Schmeling, the black Uhlan of the Rhine, in June, under the auspices of the Milk Fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman.

MR. BOSTON

—by—

JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—Mr. Boston watched the crowd as it passed on its way through the road at the Hotel McAllister to secure pasteboards for the Sharkey-Scott bout at Madison Square Garden's new stadium here tonight.

Jack Conway

"It looks as though the Battle of the Palms is going to be a financial success after all," said Sheldon. "Just talked with Frank Bruen and he says the show will net more than $300,000," chirped Mr. Boston. "The fans were slow in putting their dough on the line, but they finally got steamed up over the clash between the American and British champions."

Dr. John Connor, one of the examining physicians of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, mitted Mr. Boston.

"I shall be at the office of the boxing commission at noon," said Dr. Connor, "and will assist in examining Sharkey. I took a look at Jack at his training camp and he is in perfect physical condition. He was normal in every respect."

"I am probably more excited about this fight than Sharkey," asserted Burt Whitman, able sports writer, who stepped into the picture at this point.

MR. BOSTON noticed that Dr. Connor had his instruments with which he takes a boxer's blood pressure, and also the one used to test the heart.

"Examine me, doc, said Mr. Boston, "I would like to find out if the boys who have been chasing Annie Oakley's have caused my blood pressure to hop up."

Dr. Connor hustled Mr. Boston into one of the offices of the Arcade and after an examination pronounced him 100 per cent fit. "Test me," pleaded Mick Alpert, king of the Boston night clubs. "Get to bed early nights said the doc after his examination. Blood pressure just a little bit low."

EDDIE MACK stepped into the gathering with the news that the boys on his special had enjoyed a swell breakfast.

"I'm stopping at a joint where they sock you $20 just to look at a couple of twin beds," said the sergeant, "and so I decided to have my meals with the boys on the special. It is a banquet at every meal."

JOE RUBINS stepped in from nowhere and enlivened the gang by a few snappy stories. Joe is doing his stuff on the roof garden of the Alcatzar Hotel. Johnny Buckley passed along with a million or so folks trying to make him for a free ticket to the fight.

"If Buckley gave a ticket to everybody who asked him for one," said Mr. Boston, "there wouldn't be any room in the stadium for the cash customers."

HUB FIGHTER CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

By JACK SHARKEY

American Heavyweight Champion

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—Let the fight go on.

I'm ready for the sound of the gong which will send me into action against Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, in our 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden's new stadium at Miami City tonight.

Five weeks of hard training are behind me. It is a pleasure to have the training grind over and to know that within a few hours I shall be in there trading blows with Scott.

Since I started training, I have been asked on numerous occasions to give my opinion as to the probable outcome of the battle.

I have hesitated in making statements as to what I believe I shall do against Scott for fear I might be accused of boasting.

I HAVE dismissed most of my interviewers with a statement to the effect that I would put up my best fight and that I was confident I would win.

I feel I shall win over Scott. I shall try to make my victory as impressive as possible.

It would be unwise for me to state just how I'm going to defeat the British champion. One must remember that Phil has had 12 years of experience in important bouts. Regardless of what some of the experts may say of the British champion's ability, he is not any pushover for me.

I consider Scott the world's third ranking heavyweight. I only place Schmeling, the German, and myself ahead of the clever Englishman.

WHEN I enter the ring, I shall be prepared to beat one of the great heavyweights in the world. I have found that when one underrates an opponent that he is liable to run into trouble. Under such conditions there is usually a letting down in attack and in boxing.

The best way to enter any bout is by believing that the opponent is a first-class man. One then boxes at his best and has a better chance of victory.

Jack Conway Again Risks Rep as Picker of Fight Winners

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—Jack Conway today picked Jack Sharkey to beat Phil Scott, Vittorio Campollo to win from Johnny Risko, Jim Maloney to upset Moise Boquillon, Tommy Loughran to outscore Pierre Charles and Raoul Bianci to dispose of Bill Daring in the Battle of the Palms tonight.

"Sharkey still rules a 5 to 1 favorite over Scott," said Mr. Boston. "Jack is not permitting the opinion of the experts to cause him to let down. He says he will be prepared to battle one of the greatest fighters in the world when he clashes with Scott tonight."

Conway's 1930 record follows:

DeGlane Wrestles Wladeck Zbyszko at Arena Tonight

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

M'COY IN MAT GO WITH STAN ZBYSZKO

HENRI DeGLANE, champion wrestler of France, clashes with Wladeck Zbyszko, son of Poland in the feature bout of the all-star wrestling show of promoter Paul Bowser at the Boston Arena, tonight. The semifinal setto will find Stanislaus Zbyszko, older brother of Wladeck, facing off with Robert "Bibber" McCoy of Cambridge.

Bowser has arranged to give out round by round details of the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott bout which will be going on at Miami Beach, Florida.

The wrestling show looms as the best of the season. All-star performers are booked to appear on tonight's card. Wladeck Zbyszko has been travelling on high this season, turning back all opposition, while his opponent, Henri DeGlane, has come through with a clean sheet of victories.

DeGlane, who won the title as the champion of France, was lured to the United States to face the best. He has tussled the best of big boys here in Uncle Sam's country and knows he is shooting for a world's title match with Gus Sonnenberg.

DEGLANE AGGRESSIVE

His aggressiveness and ability will give most of the heavyweights plenty of trouble. Wladeck Zbyszko is an old master at the catch as catch can style and should make it interesting for DeGlane and the fans.

The semifinal attraction will have youth and a veteran. Bob "Bibber" McCoy, former Holy Cross football star and baseball player, will meet the older Zbyszko, Stanislaus. The later has been in the sport for many a year and knows all the tricks of the game.

LION OF POLAND ON MAT

Stanley Stasiak, Lion of Poland, will make his first appearance in a month or more when he hops through the ropes to maul around with Jack Sherry, champion of Ohio. Stasiak needs no introduction to the fans, as he always is ready to give plenty of action. His opponent has been travelling along at a merry clip and should give Stan trouble.

SMITH OUT FOR 14TH TITLE

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP)—Victor in the Orlando open, his second tournament triumph in as many weeks and his 13th in 15 months, Horton Smith of Detroit, today was en route to Belleair for the annual $2500 Florida West Coast event.

Smith's two 18-hole rounds of 69 and 70 gave him a 139 and $600 first money here yesterday. He won again by one stroke, the same margin he held over Bobby Jones of Atlanta at the end of the Savannah, Ga., tournament last Saturday.

Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y. and "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, Los Angeles, tied for second in the 36-hole Orlando contest with 140s. Each received $330. Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, won $200 with a 141 and 143's for Al Watrous, Detroit, and Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., brought each $112.50.

PORTLAND FIVE PLAYS IN HUB

The basketball team of the Portland Maine Boys' Club, considered as one of the best teams in that State, will be the opponent of the Boys' Club of Boston Saturday at the Eben D. Jordan Memorial gymnasium, Charlestown.

The Pine Tree State team to date has played 16 games, winning 13 and losing three and at present is leading the Portland City League, being the favorite for the championship at the present time.

The team that will take the floor against Boston will be composed of Flaherty and Goldstein, forwards; Kimball, center; McGuire and Agger, backs; with Naples, Kohanian, Weiss, Shepard, Botto, Goldstein and Alberti as reserves.

The local team to win must stop Goldstein and Kimball, who are considered as two of the most promising players developed in Maine for some time.

There will be a preliminary game in which the crack Hancocks of Medford, winners of the intermediate division of the Boys' Club tournament for the past two years, will meet the fast Boys' Club Shamrocks, who to date have won 13 of their 14 games.

Stars Quit

Young Red Sox Moundmen Tested

By JOE CASHMAN

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 27—The fate of several of the 22 Red Sox pitchers will soon be settled.

They will start tossing 'em up in batting practice for the first time today, and it won't be long before Manager Heine Wagner will have a pretty accurate line on the ability of the majority of them and will know which are worthy of the most attention.

Morris, Ruffing, Russell, Gaston and MacFayden are the only moundsmen sure of being regulars this summer. The other 17, regardless of previous experience, start off today from scratch. No favor will be shown any of them.

The five who show the most stuff will be retained. The others will be released either under option or outright, depending on what they display.

A few undoubtedly will drop out of the running very shortly, but it is our belief after looking them over carefully and studying their records, that a great number of them have considerable class and are very evenly matched as far as ability goes. We will be greatly surprised if Wagner is able to decide what to keep much before the season starts.

Everybody connected with the club from President Quinn down to the meekest rookie is anxious to see Ben Shields, big southpaw, in action.

SOX NEED LEFTY

Not since Herb Pennock was with the club nearly ten years ago have the Sox had a left-handed pitcher of major league caliber. They would probably have escaped the cellar several seasons had they had a first-class portsider.

One to go along with the five regular right-handers this season would give the Fenway flock a pitching staff second to none in the country and would, in all probability, pull them out of the basement.

Neither Dobens nor Bayne, the other left-handers, is good enough to become a regular, judging from what they showed last season, but Shields may be.

It all depends on whether he is as good as he was three seasons back. At that time the Yankees bought him at a big price. He reported to them in time to pitch three games near the close of the campaign.

He won each of them and looked so good that the New York experts began predicting that he would be another Pennock and the late Miller Huggins counted on him to take his regular turn on the mound the following year.

RELEASED STAR

When he reported the next spring, however, he was ill. He remained that way all season despite the efforts of the best physicians to restore his health and he didn't get into a single ball game. At the end of the year he was released.

He returned to his home in Virginia. There he began a fight to get well. It was a long, tough battle, but he finally won out last fall and the desire to return to the diamond came back to him.

He wrote to several magnates without success and finally got in touch with Bob Quinn. The Sox prexy grabbed him at once. He says he is well and he looks it. There is no healthier looking youth on the squad.

He also says that he has lost none of his stuff. The truth of that statement can only be determined after he has worked out a few times.

If he is as good as he was, he is worth $50,000 or more, of any magnate's money and the Red Sox are a pretty good ball club, even if not another rookie proves a big leaguer.

CONRAD ENTERS N. E. BOUTS

Norman Conrad, amateur welterweight champion of New Hampshire, with a long knockout trail behind him, will be one of the outstanding stars who will make a bid for a title at the New England amateur boxing championships to be staged at the Boston Arena next Monday and Tuesday nights, in what is expected to prove the biggest amateur tournament ever conducted in the Hub.

Conrad, it is expected, will punch his way to the finals, and present indications point to a meeting between the New Hampshire champion and Charley Kiley of Newton, the Massachusetts champion. It's the first time in many years that New Hampshire has been represented by a titleholder in these bouts.

Conrad hails from Wilton, N. H., and it is expected that he will be accompanied to the Hub by numerous outstanding pures of the State.

With the big tournament only a few days away, indications are bright for a most successful event, and it is expected that there will be a record-breaking entry list in each of the eight championship classes.

Not in many years has interest been so keen and the struggles for the titles are certain to provide the followers of the pures with more action than in many years.

RELIEF FOR THE WEARY

"Some crank might decide to take a few pot shots at Sharkey," said Mr. Boston. "That's why Broderick is on the job. Johnny says he can lick any six gunmen with a policeman's billy."

I NOTICED Dr. John F. Curran, of Worcester, passing through the arcade. There were many other people from Boston and New England.

"At times I feel I am on Tremont st.," chirped Mr. Boston. "The gang from home has certainly moved in for the fight."

Howard Ehmke Won Seven; Lost Two

Howard Ehmke, the A's pitching hero of the world series, pitched only two complete games in the regular season. But he was in enough games to give him a record of seven won and two lost.

B. U. PITCHERS START TOSSING BALL TODAY

Coach Joe Gilmore will allow the Boston University battery candidates to get the feel of the baseball in their hands for the first time this afternoon when the Terrier twirlers commence lobbying the ball up to the catchers.

For the past two days, the new B. U. diamond mentor has confined the efforts of his charges to calisthenics and medicine ball workouts. Gilmore intends to have all of his men in shape by the time the season opens and he is losing no time in getting his pitchers and catchers started.

Several of the boys reported with a few pounds of excess weight at the first drill Tuesday but it will not be long before they are all in trim.

The battery prospects are extremely bright this spring and make the whole outlook for a good season many degrees better than a year ago at this time when a crippled catcher was the only man available for battery duty who had had any previous experience on the Terrier nine.

PICKARD IN SHAPE

Ollie Pickard, veteran receiver of three campaigns, was the only letter man to report with the battery candidates last Spring. At the time he was suffering with a badly bruised shoulder which he received playing basketball and it was not until the season was nearly half over that Pickard was his old self and able to play his best game.

Pickard is back for his fourth and final year on the B. U. diamond team and is in the best of condition and should enjoy his best year yet.

Three twirlers were developed from out of an inexperienced group of moundmen last spring, and by the end of the season were turning in some high grade performances. This trio is made up of Lefty Lokjo, Buck Weafer and Art Murphy, and these are the boys who are being counted on to bear the brunt of the hurling duties this season.

None of these boys have reached his peak as yet and should continue to improve all the time. Although the first two are only sophomores and Murphy a junior, they are all well versed in the tricks of the pitching trade and should hang up a flock of victories before they get through at Boston University, and they all intend to get a good start this spring. Lokjo is a portsider, with lots of stuff, and Weafer and Murphy are a pair of big right handers with plenty of speed and a good assortment of curves.

BURNS NOT TO PLAY

A twirler who saw service on the mound in a relief role is Bunno Burns, one armed athlete from Charlestown, who was counted on to be of value this year, but because of the pressure of studies, Burns, who is a senior, has decided to forego the diamond game this spring.

Solly Bowers, a regular member of the twirling corps three years ago, is attempting a comeback, and has hopes of taking his regular turn on the mound once more. Bowers is another left hander who has proved bothersome to more than one team and if he can regain his former stride should make a valuable addition to the Terrier nine.

Les Church and Harry Corson, both pitchers on the freshman team a year ago, are another pair of good prospects who should show the results of their season's experience with the yearlings and may cause the veterans to step.

The new men without previous varsity experience who are after pitching honors are: Stuie Tarr, varsity track man; Ben Nesson, Louis Plotkin, Ellis Russell, Steph DeSilvia, Bob Miller, and Morris Rosenbloom.

Al Bass, freshman receiver a year ago, and Mike Jukins, former Lawrence high school star, are both good catchers with plenty of experience who are after the backstop's berth. Jukins was ineligible last season but he worked out with the team a lot and will be a serious contender for Pickard's catching job.

Bass is a great hitter and is fast on his feet. If there doesn't seem to be any opening in the catching department, Bass will try out for an outfield position where he should have little difficulty in handling himself as he played in the outer garden in prep school.

Tigers Purchase Another Shortstop

Detroit has secured another Texas leaguer, Bill Akers of Beaumont, for the shortshop job, the fourth shortshop from that league in the last few seasons.

Swim Title Races on at Lynn Tonight

TWO New England junior swimming championships will be decided tonight at the swim meet staged by the Lynn Y. M. C. A. in conjunction with the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at the Lynn Y pool, Market st., Lynn.

The girls will compete for the New England Junior 500 yards free style title, while the other event in the championship class will be the men's 150 yards junior N. E. A. A. A. U. backstroke.

In the women's race Gladys Novies and Betty Ritchie of the Women's Swimming Association of Brookline are favorites, along with Catherine Lynch and Helen Linden of the Boston Swimming Association.

There will also be three open events for women, 100 yards backstroke, scratch; 100 yards freestyle scratch, and diving, with five compulsory dives and one optional.

Esther Morrison, New England champion diver; Ethel Lee and Mary Scully, all of the Women's Swimming Association of Brookline, are entered in the diving, to compete against the best of the Boston Swimming Association, Mae Magill and Jean Cresizziki.

Gordon Connolly and Richard Steele of the Boston Swimming Association compete in the New England A. A. A. U. junior 150 yards backstroke, while the Boys' Club of Boston has entered John Meany and William Nolan.

Missouri has six letter men in this year's squad and has high hopes of the Big Six honors.

Huntington Downs Tech '33 in Track

Huntington school track team out-scored M. I. T. freshmen, 35 to 28, at the Tech track.

Capt. William Floring of Huntington was outstanding, winning the 45-yard hurdles and 40-yard dash, and placing second in the high jump. The dash was close, withall three runners finishing together. When the judges compared notes, they decided that Floring won the verdict, Soisalo of Tech was second and Kinraide, third.

The 600-yard run was won by Stanley Beasley of Huntington by inches.

BATTING WORK STARTS FOR TRIBE TODAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27—The hot sun has so well loosened the joints of the Tribal flingers that today they were able to put a bit of speed into their deliveries.

After a torrid workout in the morning and a lunch in the shade of the palm trees in centerfield, Bill McKechnie ordered batting practice in the afternoon. In this swat session all the regular hurlers, together with those infielders and outfielders now on hand, endeavored to focus their batting eyes.

Watched closely by Manager McKechnie was Walter Berger, the new slugger from the coast. Although this was Berger's first day in uniform he slapped out some hot liners to the outfield.

YANKS LIKE BERGER

Berger is a right-hand hitter and is thought pretty well of, not only in the Braves camp, but also in the adjacent Yankee headquarters. There, they say the Braves grabbed off a good one, in the big boy from Los Angeles.

Rabbit Maranville was an early arrival today. The Rabbit took the day off to unpack his trunks and to adjust himself in the Braves' new quarters at the West Coast Inn. He'll be out in the spangles tomorrow and will probably continue his spring habit of burning up the infield on the first day.

It's a bit too early for passing judgment on any of the new men. About the only thing that can be said is that the Tribe is on the job in two long sessions a day with an intermission of an hour and a half at noon for lunch which is brought from the hotel across from the park.

SPLIT SQUAD

The morning workout opens with the squad split into two parts, each with a medicine ball. Doc Painter's setting up drill of a year ago has been discarded as have most of the Doc's complicated electrical apparatus.

Jimmy Neary's deft fingers, together with linament and hot towels now are the remedy for ailing limbs.

After the medicine ball workout, the old bunting game gets its inning and then the pitchers get a chance to chase fungo flies in the outfield.

Dartmouth Five Jumps to 4th Place

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—Dartmouth handed Princeton a 42 to 23 trouncing on the Tiger court in the struggle to see which would remain in last place.

The Tigers had been favored to win the contest between two closely matched teams. Dartmouth, by winning, moved into fourth place in the standing, just ahead of Cornell. Dartmouth now has won three games and lost four, while Cornell has had one more defeat. Princeton can boast but two victories in seven games.

Dartmouth gets another test Saturday night, playing at home against the second place Penn five. Penn has lost two of six games.

The game may have a bearing on the first place standing if Columbia's first place team fails Friday to break Yale's record of not having lost a game at home. Princeton and Cornell will stage another cellar battle at Ithaca in the second Saturday game.

Kansas dominated the Big Six basketball race for years and this season has a strong team to try for a comeback.

26 Harvard Trackmen Leave Tomorrow for I. C. Games

CRIMSON HAS GOOD CHANCE TO WIN TITLE

TWENTY SIX Harvard trackmen will be entered in the I. C. 4 A. games at New York Saturday, Coach Eddie Farrell announced today.

The Crimson [illegible] York [illegible] so that [illegible] may have a full day [illegible] before matching strides with the cream of the country's college trackmen on Saturday.

After the romp away from Dartmouth and Cornell in the triangular meet the Harvard track team is in fine spirits and waiting for the gun [illegible] honors at the intercollegiates.

AFTER POLE VAULT MARK

Farrell's prediction that the young man will clear close to 14 feet soon may materialize sooner than is expected. For [illegible] after the [illegible] Sutemeister soared to 13 feet 4 inches [illegible] at Soldiers Field. And this was not the only [illegible] he has made since [illegible]

College [illegible] will probably be [illegible] in the Madison Square Garden.

While Farrell does not expect his athletes to carry away first honors in the I. C. 4 A. games, the Crimson track master says that his charges will be well up toward the top when the final scores are added.

RELAY RACE FEATURES

The two-mile relay race will again be one of the features of a great track evening. With Pen Hallowell, Joe Forbes, Warren Rowe and Dave Cobb representing the Crimson, other college teams will have the race of their lives to finish in front.

Red Haggerty and Jaako Mikola accompany the team tomorrow to New York. Haggerty looks for Penn to come through again this season, but says that Harvard has an even chance to take the honors away from the Quaker City team.

Penn is sending about 40 athletes to the meet. They include Barney Berlinger, who will be another rival of Oscar Sutemeister in the pole vault, and Bill Newkirk, a broad jumper.

Paul Voncks of Harvard has his eye on the weight throw title and should show some fancy heaving of the 35-pound weight.

CRUSADERS TO TILT FOR ONE MILE RELAY CROWN

SCOTT HEAVIER THAN SHARKEY

York. But he danced in and knocked both those boys dead.

The Squire has been in so many frameups when he was supposed to get the short end, that he has made himself into a raging ring demon, who asks nothing from anybody and is willing to go along on his own anytime. He gives no quarter, nor does he inquire for any, as our English cousins would say.

Our English cousins, Lionel and the others, are all over the place by the way, but none of them has chosen Scott to win from all that your [illegible] correspondent has heard. They seem to be here on a pilgrimage of a sort, or perhaps a vacation.

Phillip's vacation, when all is said and done, should begin permanently tonight. He is a one hundred per cent sap for a left hand of any sort—or a right hand of any sort, for that matter. He has been fer-lattened by Knute Hansen.

His most notable victories have been won on fouls. He seems to lack the fighting flare that goes with championship prospects. And when he sticks his round head through the ropes he will be the [illegible] last chance with a dying hope.

A lucky punch may win the fight for him but Scott is only a head puncher and the head punchers have never given Sharkey trouble.

You've often heard it said that Dempsey ruined every man he ever fought. Dempsey made Sharkey and you can lay that on the line in that famous fight—and what a snorter it was, if I may be allowed to reminisce.

Sharkey met his idol and found that his idol's left hook was made of clay. The greatest left hooker in the history of the prize ring could not even stagger him, until the blowoff in the seventh round when the Squire swooned under the effect of low punches.

From that night on Sharkey was made as a fighter. He had fought the great Dempsey, tested his punch, and then he became a great fighter.

Tonight, from this corner, Sharkey will prove his right to be ranked among the greatest heavyweights in the last decade. James Joseph Tunney—you must remember Gene, the heavyweight champion who refused to recognize Sharkey's contract to fight him—will be in a ringside seat tonight glaring at the Sharkey man whom he abominates.

11 BATTERYMEN OUT AT TUFTS

Eleven battery candidates and 15 infielders and outfielders reported to Coach Nash in the Tufts first baseball workout held in Goddard cage.

The number will be increased with the close of the basketball and wrestling season, which will finish in about two weeks. Until that time the Jumbo [illegible] will work almost exclusively with the battery men.

Adams, Pars[illegible] and S[illegible] were the veteran [illegible] at the first session with [illegible] and Gibbons of last year's squad and Haber and Hat[illegible] freshman pitchers among the [illegible] mound hopefuls.

Arlanson, this year's captain, Ke[illegible] Mo[illegible] and M[illegible] were the only catchers putting in an appearance at the initial practice. The catching department [illegible] none too strong with Arlanson the only reliable man [illegible] present. Coach Nash hopes to [illegible] a dark horse among some of the new candidates.

Dick Phelan is helping to solve the catching problem at present. The former Holy Cross and Lynn player, who will be with [illegible] this year, is getting in a [illegible] preliminary work with the Tufts candidates and will work the pitchers for a week or two.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

When the golf bee stings he sinks a whale of a stinger, no doubt about that. There's nothing like it. Men look at it and think it's silly, only to be drawn in at an unguarded moment and usually [illegible] then will and what they think at the moment to be their best judgment and they get that stinger with compound effect, so that thereafter new things worry them. The game is so fascinating that it generates enormous enthusiasm in beginners, and it is this enthusiasm that immediately leads them away from right mental aspects and into the sea of golfing mechanical theories. Most of their thought consequently, is expended on these mechanical theories, with the result that a real knowledge of golf is retarded and almost every swing is attempted with some new and different mechanical principle being tried. This in turn leads to an increasing effort to make the swing while the burden of thought about mechanical principles weighs so heavily that what might otherwise be golfing progress of some sort is prevented. This is the only possible reaction that could result. Let's change it.

2nd Place Deadlocks in Big League Hockey

By BILL GRIMES

THREE weeks from the close of the National Hockey League season find the New York Rangers and the Chicago Black hawks deadlocked in second place in the American division.

And the same conditions exist in the international section with Les Canadiens and the Ottawa Senators on even terms.

Due to the fact that the Bruins have scored almost twice as many points as the Rangers and the Blackhawks, there has been nothing to the American division race other than a fight for second place for months.

But such is far from the situation across the border. The Maroons have a 2½ games lead over the Flying Frenchmen and the Senators but this is by no means a safe margin, even at this late stage of the race.

In fact, it would not come as a surprise to the [illegible] followers of National League hockey if the Montreal Maroons were [illegible] They have only six games to play against eight for Les Canadiens and seven for the Senators.

However, the Maroons still have an ace in the hole, for four of their remaining games will be played in the Forum, where the worst they get of the refereeing is about a 60-40 break in their favor.

The Maroons have been handicapped all season through injured and sick goal tenders. Clint Benedict was forced out of the game for long stretches on two occasions this year and Flat Walsh has been [illegible]

BENEDICT MAY RETIRE

Benedict is a veteran and apparently has passed his [illegible] [illegible] have been in circulation since Howie Morenz laid Benedict low with a terrific shot early in January that the veteran would [illegible] from the game.

Walsh who was summoned from a sick bed to go in the nets for Maroons after Benedict was hurt is said to have developed heart trouble. He presented a ghastly appearance during the [illegible] game [illegible]

[illegible] the remaining [illegible] the Maroons have home and home [illegible] with the rejuvenated Ottawa Senators and the Maple Leafs of Toronto.

The other two games will be played at the Forum where they will entertain the Americans Saturday night and the civic rivals Les Canadiens one week from tonight.

OTTAWA IN TOUGH SPOT

Of the three teams which have a chance to finish at the top of the Canadian division Ottawa has the [illegible] their seven games are to be played away from home. Along with the two games with Maroons the Senators will be in action in Detroit tonight, at the Garden with the Bruins on Saturday and play the first of the pair of Montreal games at home next Tuesday.

Then they are scheduled to play a return engagement with the Cougars at home, after which they go on the road for two games, one in the Montreal Forum and the other against the Americans in the New York Garden. They will wind up their season at home with the Star Spangled banner tribe in Ottawa.

The Flying Frenchmen were traveling along at the best speed they have displayed [illegible] George Hainsworth was [illegible] of the game [illegible] borrowed [illegible] from the Rhode Island Reds [illegible] Americans [illegible] and were bumped off 4 to [illegible]

However, they [illegible] more games to play, two of which are with Pittsburgh, a club which has only been going through the motions of playing hockey all season and which has displayed less and less interest in its work every week.

But Les Canadiens have two games remaining with the Rangers who will battle them to the finish rather than risk the chance of meeting Maroons in a short playoff series. The [illegible] have ties with the Bruins, Maroons, Toronto and Americans to be played [illegible] they should break better than even.

MAROONS RESTING

While the Maroons are resting tonight Les Canadiens and Ottawa will be in action. The Flying Frenchmen are battling Connie Smythe's Maple Leafs in the [illegible] and the Senators are playing the Cougars in Detroit.

[illegible] the Maroons.

At the [illegible] of the Canadian division [illegible] in action Saturday night and while the odds favor Maroons to win over Americans and Canadiens to defeat Pittsburgh, the Senators are in a bad spot for they will be stacked up against the Bruins who have not lost a game in 15 starts.

Although the Bruins might welcome another playoff series with Les Canadiens it would be a terrible shock to the [illegible] for that [illegible] Ottawa Senators [illegible] first place.

[illegible] playoff and [illegible] participate in the playoff will beat down to keep the Senators out of the running as far as the big money is concerned.

Bertazzolo Meets Sandwina Tomorrow

Riccardo Bertazzolo, Italian heavyweight champion, completes [illegible] Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Bertazzolo and Sandwina are old rivals. They met in a scheduled 15-round bout at London two years ago and Bertazzolo claims he knocked Sandwina out with a clean punch to the solar plexus, but Sandwina claimed foul and was given the decision. The huge Italian has been trying to secure a return bout with Sandwinda ever since and not until last week was he successful so tomorrow night he will attempt to even scores.

An Unusual Situation Arises in the Dress Market; Result, $18,750 worth of New Spring Dresses to be sold by Chandler & Co. for $11,250

All the more unusual coming at the start of the Spring Season—It means $25 dresses for $15. It means dresses that boast details of higher priced frocks, because they are high priced frocks--USUALLY. Even the cost of materials in some is about $15.00.

Here is the story—Member of a firm of dress manufacturers wished to withdraw his interest. This situation necessitated the immediate disposal for spot cash of their entire stock of dresses 750 in all. It is rather unfortunate for them that this had to be done, for every dress was new, fresh, crisp, over 300 in the process of making, and the remainder made within the past two weeks. But it had to be done. Chandler & Co. were on the spot and the deal was closed.

CHAPTER 41

"YES, but you don't do the housework. [illegible] it he [illegible] The [illegible] makes [illegible] You've been out of the [illegible] since [illegible] Every afternoon I've come home to find her out here [illegible] and making [illegible] for dinner at your [illegible] with Aline and some of the rest of your [illegible]

"Well, [illegible] feel her peeling vegetable [illegible] I'm going to [illegible] I put that ad in the paper [illegible] and I'm not going to [illegible] for you and Norrie [illegible] write that on your shirt front."

She snapped her fingers under his nose to show him what she thought of him.

Then she pushed past him and went back into the living room. Jane Goodsell had [illegible] that [illegible]

[illegible] Aline [illegible] take [illegible]

* * *

The next day Lovejoy's [illegible] ment was in the paper.

"Housemaid wanted [illegible] "One who can cook and will do downstairs work. See Mrs. Nicholson, corner of Tudor rd. and Stallings lane."

And that very night it was answered by the last person on earth whom Lovejoy wanted to see.

Lovejoy spent the next day shopping for [illegible] with Aline. She [illegible] a pair of blue crackle [illegible] bought them.

"I suppose [illegible] it," she said to Aline on the way home. "Tom [illegible] going to be jailed for [illegible] if I don't stop buying things. [illegible] But he just bought a case of liquor and some new golf sticks himself."

"Of course!" cried Aline, turning her car into Tudor road. "Al's always telling me that I can't have this and that I can't have that. But I go right on spending money, and I notice he always has plenty of it. All husbands are liars, Lovejoy."

She stopped her car in front of the house [illegible]

"Run [illegible] in your letter box for me [illegible]" she said. "She was [illegible] South [illegible] from [illegible]"

There was one of [illegible] letters in the box now [illegible] Lovejoy carried it back to the car.

"My daily fear is that Tom will get hold of one of those things," she said, handing the big square envelope to Aline.

"You should worry about Tom!" she said [illegible] "He's getting away with murder himself the way he carries on with this Norrie person! Look at him this minute."

Lovejoy turned her head and saw Tom's old automobile coming slowly up the street. Tom was driving it, and beside him sat Norrie with the baby in her lap.

"If I had a young and handsome husband like Tom," said Aline, "I certainly wouldn't let him go out riding with Norrie all the time. Not that Norrie's good-looking, because she isn't. But almost any man falls for any new face after he's been married for a while!"

It struck Lovejoy that she was pitying her. And she did not want to be pitied.

"Listen here, Aline, don't feel sorry for me on account of Norrie Shane!" she cried. "I don't care what Tom Nicholson does!—I've been seeing a lot of Steve Oglebay lately, myself. I'm going my way—and Tom can go his! If I let him, Steve would take me in a minute!"

She could have bitten off her tongue for saying that to Aline, almost as soon as the words were out of her mouth. She hadn't meant to tell anyone about herself and Steve Oglebay—ever!

It was 6 o'clock when she followed Norrie and Tom into the house.

But the table was not set, and the kitchen stove was stone-cold. The carrots were still in their paper sack, just as they had come from the grocery store. The veal cutlets were wrapped in a piece of waxed paper in the ice-box.

"I don't know what time we'll have dinner tonight—and I don't care!" Lovejoy said snappishly to Tom when he came walking into the kitchen for a bottle of ginger ale. He had formed Al Alderson's habit of drinking a highball before dinner every night.

"I don't care, either," he answered smoothly. "I had a late lunch—but I do think you should have stayed at home in case any maids came to answer your advertisement. It's just wasting money, putting an ad in the paper and then leaving the house—"

"Oh, keep still!" Lovejoy turned on him in fury. "I'm sick and tired of the sound of your voice!—And if you want any food tonight you can get it yourself! And the same thing goes for Norrie!"

She threw her peeling knife down upon the sink, snatched off her apron and marched out of the kitchen.

The bathroom door was open and Lovejoy could hear her singing to young Tom as she worked:

> "There was an old woman
> And she had a little pig,
> It didn't cost much
> For it wasn't very big."

If it wasn't for the boy, thought

Fine Woman Who Cut Fence With Hatchet

For cutting down a fence with a hatchet on Washington's birthday Mrs. Donata Leone, 44, of West st., Newton, was fined $10 by Judge William F. Bacon in Newton court today.

Being unable to pay, she was given two weeks in which to obtain the money.

In defending her act, Mrs. Leone told Judge Bacon she cut the fence down because the hand of one of her young children had been severely lacerated by contact with barbed wire.

She said the barbed wire had evidently been placed on the fence by her adjoining neighbor, Mrs. Eva Trackman, to prevent the children from making a short cut to Adams st.

NEW HOSPITAL OPENS TODAY

Opening exercises for the Baker Memorial Hospital, the first hospital for "the white collar class," will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock and visitors will be permitted to inspect the new $2,000,000 unit, which is a part of the Massachusetts General group.

The new hospital is intended for those who do not want charity treatment and yet have not the means for special hospital and surgical service that the wealthy command. The Baker Memorial was made possible by the bequest of Mary Rich Richardson in memory of her father, Richard Baker, Jr., and her mother, Ellen Mara Baker, to which has been added other gifts.

Assumption Alumnae Dance Monday Night

DEATH OF SISK HALTS TRIAL

With the jury box partly filled a mistrial was declared today in Middlesex Superior court in the case of two convicts who escaped from Concord Reformatory, when Judge James H. Sisk received notice of the death of his brother in Lynn.

The brother was Thomas J. Sisk, 73, a claim adjuster for the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.

John F. Buchanan and James S. Vincent, both of South Boston, had just gone on trial on several charges connected with their escape after beating Daniel O'Connell, a guard, into unconsciousness and taking his revolver.

When Judge Sisk received word of his brother's death, he asked the defense if it would agree to a mistrial. The agreement was quickly forthcoming. No date for a new trial was set.

Use Scrubbing Brush to Beautify Arms

A scrubbing brush, soap and water will cure redness and roughness of the upper arms, Miss [illegible] [illegible]

"A good hand scrubbing brush is an essential of attractive hands and should be used at least once a day with a soap that lathers well," said Miss Francis.

"After the lather has removed the grime, rinsing should be thorough, for soap is as injurious to the hands as to the face unless [illegible]

"Well proportioned hands have palms that are equal in length to that of the middle fingers. [illegible]

"The lines of the hand can be corrected by shaping the nails to conform to the shape of the fingers, by the types of rings and bracelets worn and also by the sleeves in one's gown.

"Women whose hands and fingers are short can give them an effect of length if the settings of their [illegible]

EXPECT HEATED RETORT FROM FULLER

Ex-Governor to Return Sunday; He Make Speak on the Charges Against G. O. P.

A barrage of [illegible] by former Governor Alvan T. Fuller in retaliation for attacks upon him in connection with his Republican state committee charges was indicated today when it was learned that Fuller is expected back from Florida Sunday.

Although the House committee on rules is expected not to recommend adoption of an order for investigation of Fuller's charges, there appeared today a possibility that the committee's report would be delayed until his return from Florida.

The order filed by Rep. Leo P. Connolly, Democrat, of Boston, asks that the administration party's State committee be probed as a result of the severe criticism Fuller recently made of its activities and expenditures.

Stating that "we have enough public scolds," Representative Connolly, in supporting his order emphasized that "we men in public life have got to be protected."

"This is not the first time that this man (Fuller) has gone out of his way to make personal attacks upon men," Connolly emphasized. "When an attack is made upon a man and the man who makes the attack is challenged, he ought to have the courage to back up his challenge. This man ought to hang his head in shame for not being here today after being notified."

Declaring he would like to talk to Fuller in connection with the recent charges the latter is alleged to have made, Amos L. Taylor of Belmont, chairman of the Republican State committee, said:

"The Republican State committee is certainly not averse to this examination. We have tried to observe the law. All our members are honest God-fearing citizens and the present committee certainly has nothing to conceal. It desires to accomplish what you up here desire, to accomplish good government."

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

U. S. INDUSTRIES SEEN AS THE NEXT GREAT PATRON OF ARTS

INDIVIDUAL SUPPORT PASSING

Pictures No Longer of First Importance, Says Art Director

The [illegible] of [illegible] support of art [illegible] and the next great patron of art will be the [illegible] declared today by [illegible] Director of the Art Center, New York, at the Chamber of Commerce [illegible] Hotel.

[illegible] an important statement by Hans Paedrek [illegible] and last but not least there is the weakness of the artists themselves in permitting a cult to develop within their own ranks that has done them [illegible] harm.

"We speak to [illegible] the Woolworth [illegible]

"We [illegible] them for what they are. [illegible] no need for explanation and interpretation [illegible] place before [illegible] of critical form. Do we say 'Ah [illegible] a very pleasing solution of a primary problem in line and color composition?' We do not. That would be below the dignity of art.

"We must interpret the thing before us [illegible] hidden [illegible] a [illegible] message. It doesn't really matter whether or not the particular painter was capable of [illegible] thought. [illegible] the snobbery of [illegible] not to [illegible] such talking [illegible] Suffice [illegible] that something [illegible] for a good and sufficient reason."

Helper Killed in Fall Under Truck

John Vecenzio, 19, of Chilton st., Cambridge, was fatally injured today when he fell under the front wheel of a heavily loaded coal truck on Prospect St. hill, Somerville.

He was a helper on the vehicle [illegible] had been chocking the wheels on the way up the hill. When he went to return to the driver's seat, [illegible] slipped and fell.

Harry W. [illegible] of Concord ave., Cambridge, the driver, and George Phillips, safety officer of the Somerville police department, who happened to be nearby, put the injured man in another automobile and took him to the Somerville hospital, but he was dead on arrival.

Expect 400 at B. C. Frosh Prom

Two hundred couples are expected at the annual Boston College Freshman Prom which will be held at the Longwood Towers tonight from 9 until 2 a. m.

This is the last pre-Lenten social for Boston College students and is expected to be a large success. President Fitzgerald promises a brilliant affair after long and arduous work on preparations.

Roy Lamson's Harvardians will provide the music. Lamson's orchestra is very popular with Boston College students, having established its popularity last season at the sophomore prom.

2 LEARN WHAT 'STOP' MEANS

The failure of one automobile driver to stop at a policeman's signal in Lynn today resulted in the arrest of two and the conviction of both in Lynn court of operating under the influence of liquor.

According to Patrolman [illegible] Shanahan, while on duty in McDonough sq., Lynn, he blew his whistle to halt Edward J. McDermott of Mason st., Salem.

The car continued without stopping but later Shanahan and Sergt. Joseph Coyne saw it on Western ave. with a different driver.

Again Shanahan blew his whistle and again the driver failed to stop. The two policemen commandeered another car and gave chase.

The driver gave his name as Timothy J. Foley of C st., South Boston and was arrested together with McDermott, who was riding with him.

In court both were found guilty of operating under the influence of liquor and were fined $125 each, together with $5 each for being drunk. McDermott was also fined $20 for failing to stop on signal of an officer. Both appealed and were held in $500 each.

WHALEN CALLS CHARGE 'SILLY'

Mayor John J. Whalen of Chelsea today characterized as "ridiculous" charges of graft made against him in the awarding of the ash removal contract for the city.

Asked what he intended to do about it, the mayor said:

"They made the first move. I'll wait for them to do something."

Rep. Thomas J. Carleton and [illegible] have [illegible] a bill in equity in Supreme Court [illegible] the contract awarded [illegible] F. Twomey.

They [illegible] that Mayor Whalen [illegible] from one of [illegible] a promise to pay [illegible] of $3[illegible] for the awarding of [illegible] removal contract.

SALT IS SURE PRECIOUS

What does salt mean to you? With all of the modern conveniences you sit down to your dinner and calmly ask that the salt cellar be passed to you. According to "Jango," the African hunt film which is being presented twice daily at Tremont Temple, there are certain parts of the African jungle where salt is almost as precious as diamonds. In fact it is sometimes easier for the natives to get diamonds than it is to get salt.

It is so in the Cameroons, according to Dr. Davenport's photoplay, taken during five years in the jungle of the West Coast of Africa, the land of Trader Horn. The expedition was organized and started from Belgium, financed by privately raised capital to fight yellow fever and sleeping sickness in the African jungles.

Talking Picture Epics in Foreign Versions

All releases of Talking Picture Epics are to be done in foreign versions, namely Spanish, German and French, according to Frank R. Wilson, president. Methods to be used for the foreign versions will necessitate the enlisting of a German, French or Spanish explorer or scientist, who will introduce the English lecturer and then explain that he is interpreting the explorer's own account of his adventure.

TELEPATHIST COMING TO SCOLLAY

MERCEDES, who is to be stage headliner at the Scollay Square Olympia beginning next Saturday, has become well known for his telepathic work with Mlle. Stantone. The other night in Boston he gave a radio test of his powers, trying to transmit his thought to his girl assistant. "As we give these tests," he said, "is to prove that there is no trickery about the act. The explanation we have to others. If I could not give a satisfactory explanation I would not be here doing the act. What I do is to have someone in the audience think of a selection of music, tell me the name of it and then I transmit it to Mlle. Stantone, and she gives the name in most cases, and plays the piece.

Any number of questions are asked me and my assistant as to how the impression left me and went to her. She says that sometimes just a sense of the melody comes to her. If I do not know the music I cannot send it to her so that she can play it.

We have been working together about 10 or 12 years. We were in an orchestra first, I being the leader. When I wanted to play a certain selection I would turn to her and tell her, and it finally got so I did not seem to have to tell her, but by the time I had turned around she was picking out the right music.

"That is what started us and we have since developed the sympathetic understanding.

"Professors of psychology have interested themselves and have performed tests, but have yet been able to give no satisfactory explanation."

QUIZ WILSON IN GARRETT CASE

Atty. Gen. Warner [illegible] announced that George B. Lourie, assistant attorney-general and son of the late Judge Lourie of the Superior Court, had been assigned by him to assist Atty. Damon E. Hall, special assistant attorney-general in the Garrett probe.

"I welcome assistance in this matter from all persons having information bearing on the subject," said Warner in his public appeal.

ASKS AID OF ALL.

"I consider it the duty of every citizen of Massachusetts having information to call the same to my attention so that my investigation may be as complete and thorough as possible.

"I make this appeal in order that the true spirit of the legislative resolve may be carried out to the fullest extent and that the General Court may be informed on every fact relevant to the service of Oliver B. Garrett in the police department.

"Every matter must be gone into in detail and the true facts, whatever they may be, disclosed. The truth or falsity of all current rumors and accusations must be determined by this investigation. The General Court has placed upon me the responsibility of reporting to it the actual facts in this matter.

"I believe that I have the right to demand that any person in this Commonwealth having information come forward and disclose such information to me.

"I have made arrangement whereby any person calling at this office for that purpose will receive every facility to enable him to cooperate with me in my endeavors. I will follow up all tangible and responsible clues which are brought to my attention in this manner.

PLANS FULL INQUIRY.

"While it is my desire to commence and conclude the public hearings as speedily as possible consistent with a thorough and complete investigation, I believe that thoroughness is far more important than speed.

"A vast amount of investigation [illegible] to be necessary by reason of a[illegible] unverified information which has come and is coming [illegible] to the department. Therefore, for the present public hearings on consecutive days are impossible. As fast as information can be verified and facts prepared and assembled for presentation, hearings will follow."

The attorney-general stated that there would be no change in the starting of the first public hearing which is set for next Monday at the State House.

POLICE HEADS CONFER

Prior to his visit to the State House the police commissioner conferred with Deputy Supt. James A. McDevitt and Capt. George W. Patterson, head of the vice and liquor squads.

Other members of the police department who had to do with the Garrett investigation from the time of his transfer to Joy st. station up to the final report of the retirement board February 1, were also present.

Each of the conferees carried with him a complete department report of the activities of his particular branch in connection with the Garrett case, and it is understood these reports were turned over to the attorney-general.

Candy Cascarets give you pure cascara in a most pleasant form. Take one tonight. See how fine you feel all next day. Without discomfort and without harmful effects this gentle laxative cleanses the whole thirty feet of bowels. Cascarets never produce that nauseous feeling usually associated with the use of laxatives. And their action is so natural that there is no danger of forming the laxative habit. You can take them as often as you please or give them freely to children or old folk.

A coated tongue or a laden breath is a signal for a candy Cascaret. Or a sick headache, or any sluggish feeling; any time you believe the liver and bowels are not functioning fully, Cascarets will sweep away accumulations in the lower bowel. They are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice, making them the ideal laxative for children.

Daily Health Hint for Readers

ESPECIALLY should young children have a nap in the afternoon of an hour at least. This habit can be carried on into the school age. A nap after school and before playing is good for the nerves and prevents the irritability of children when natural bedtime arrives.

GIRLS FIND FRESH ADVENTURE DAILY IN JOBS

One With Money Miserable Without Work to Do

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

DO you pity the young girls [illegible] and thousands of them who earn their living in Boston and other [illegible] cities? [illegible] It's hard to [illegible] And it's hard to work eight hours or more in an office or store or factory. And it's very hard indeed to stretch those few wage dollars so that they shall cover all one's needs and obligations—in fact, it's impossible.

Beatrice Fairfax

But do you ever study their gay young faces? They're not a bit unhappy and they don't consider themselves the least bit ill-used. There's something dramatic in every job, and every day is a fresh adventure. Freedom and independence are delicious things.

On the other hand, there is the case of 20-year-old Genevieve U. whose letter makes me pity her very much indeed. Not because she has a job, but because she hasn't one.

Genevieve's father is a well-to-do contractor whose pride is that he can amply support his womenfolk. People who see this girl's comfortable, over-heated home and who notice the costly fur coats that she and her mother wear, classify her as a child of fortune.

But Genevieve as a matter of fact is miserable. Her home is so elaborately comfortable that it bores her to death. And because there are no surprises or uncertainties in her life, it seems to her scarcely livable. The days are long and heavy. In the evening nothing happens. Young men don't come to see Genevieve. They don't know about her.

No wonder that a misunderstanding has arisen between father and daughter.

The father would tell you truly that he has denied the girl nothing that his money could buy.

And the daughter would insist that the things she wants are beyond the reach of money.

It is her wish of course to try herself out in a world of young people of her own age. Would she be successful in a business office? Would she be capable and bright and popular? She doesn't know.

But, at least, down-town, she would be doing what other girls are doing. Life would be pulsing all about her. Friends would be available—girl friends and boy friends, too. Every girl who works, she thinks, has plenty of boy friends. Genevieve hasn't.

Is a girl more interesting and attractive if she works hard to supply her own needs than if she has nothing more important to do than go shopping, play cards or make luncheon dates with other women? The lonely young person I am writing about, thinks so.

My own belief is that this self-made father who has always made his own decisions, who has practically never consulted any other person in his life, should allow his daughter to decide this one thing for herself. She is entitled surely to know what this one bit of freedom feels like.

The girl may have in her the making of a capable business woman or she may be the sort that fumbles gropingly about an office. In either case the door of youth will have been opened to her, the door of opportunity that is so thrilling to boys and girls alike.

Nor is there any reason why she should miss those youthful pleasures that seem to her part of the wonderful world where jobs are had and where happy association is limitless.

Working for a living isn't, of course, as gay a pastime as she thinks. And it does not by any means always lead to romance. But it is a magnificent remedy for loneliness and melancholy. Genevieve's parents will delight in the change in her, once they have allowed their discontented nestling to try her eager wings.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My parents are very old fashioned. They think that when ever my two sisters wish to go out in the evening I should take them. I have done a great deal of this. But now I have a dear girl friend. Shouldn't I give my evenings to her?

MAX.
South Boston.

SINCE you live at home, Max, I think you will have to alter the family customs as tactfully as possible. Your sisters may be a little spoiled. Can't you introduce to them a few young men, friends of your own, who will act as their escorts sometimes? And can't you tell your mother about the charming girl you are interested in so she will understand your very natural desire to be with her? You have a record as a devoted brother so I think your parents will allow you to persuade them that boys' sisters and brothers need friends outside the family circle.

New Ways to Cook Fish

IN a little town on the Maine coast, Capt. Jim used to preside over an old three-legged iron kettle in which he concocted the finest fish chowder this side of the Rocky Mountains.

Martha Lee

Today we can purchase this same fish chowder made of fresh haddock, potatoes and other choice ingredients, moderately seasoned, packed all ready to use, with just the addition of milk or water, and butter.

Fish, we know, is an important food because of its richness in proteins and iodine, and the fact that the firm putting up these fish products is located right in Eastport, Me., insures the freshness of their fish supply.

SHREDDED CODFISH EN CASSEROLE

Cover shredded codfish with cold water and at once wring dry in cloth or drain in fine sieve. Peel onions and set to cook until nearly tender, changing the water once. Pare and slice potatoes, then parboil and drain. When the onions are about cooked, add the butter, paprika and boiling water to nearly cover the vegetables, sprinkle the fish over the whole, cover and set into the oven until very hot. Serve in the casserole.

SHREDDED CODFISH, CREAMED, POTATO BORDER

2 tbsps. butter.
Salt.

Melt the butter, in it cook the flour and pepper; add milk and stir until boiling, beat the egg, reserve a tablespoon and beat the rest into the sauce, add shredded codfish, freshened with a little cold water and wrung out in cloth or drained through fine or hair sieve, and let become very hot without boiling. Have ready a baking dish suitable to send to the table. Press the hot boiled potatoes through a ricer, add salt, pepper, butter and hot milk as needed and beat vigorously, dispose the fish in the baking dish and pile the potato around it; brush the potato with the egg reserved for the purpose, and set into a hot oven to brown the potato slightly.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Household Hints

Father may smile with the rest of the family when he sees a formidable bird come to the table if he will use this method of carving. A good number of slices of the juicy meat of the breast should be taken from each side alternately, beginning close to the wings. Next separate legs from the body and cut into slices. A sharp knife with a very sharp point will make the carver's task a pleasant pastime.

And when the pie was cooked out boiled the juice. Too often that is the sad experience of the pastry maker. It would be so much pleasanter to say, "And when the pie was cut it was succulently juicy." After scalloping the edges of the crust together take a strip of old, clean white muslin from the kitchen drawer, dry, dampen and press it around the ring of crust. When the pie is baked the cloth is easily pulled away and magically the juice is just where it should be.

Onion is one thing that should be kept in its place. In company with congenial foods it is of flattering importance, but when it comes in contact with butter and delicate foods noted for their fastidious tastes, onion is distinctly disagreeable. In order to keep the two types clean cut, rub the knife that has peeled an onion in salt before using it on any other food.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

She [illegible] herself into her big well aired bedroom and [illegible] down on the cushioned window seat with a new magazine and a box of maple-nut fudge that she had bought downtown that afternoon.

* * *

She was [illegible] and a half [illegible] Aline and [illegible] Anderson came [illegible] house in [illegible]. Their white clothes gleamed like [illegible]

"We came over to [illegible]," Lovejoy, at [illegible], heard Aline say to Tom.

She was dusting powder on her nose and fluffing up her hair a moment later when someone knocked upon the door.

"Come in, Aline. I was just coming downstairs," she called over her shoulder.

"There's a woman downstairs to see you. She's in the kitchen," Norrie said quietly. She had an apron tied over her snowy uniform and evidently had been washing the dinner dishes.

"I surprise you, Missis!" she said in her smooth way as soon as Lovejoy crossed the threshold of the neat shining room.

Lovejoy [illegible] shake her head.

"[illegible] I was going back to [illegible]," [illegible] went on, shifting her weight from one flat foot to the other. "But I [illegible] something that was [illegible] I went to a new job but now I like to come back here."

Lovejoy suddenly found her tongue.

"[illegible] must be crazy [illegible]," she blazed [illegible] to dare to think that I'd take you back to work for me [illegible] the house [illegible]. You pick up that bag and get out of [illegible]."

Hilda stood her ground. She [illegible] her [illegible] eyes for a minute. Then she spoke again.

"Please, missis, write me a letter then," she said. "If you won't give me a job, you sure will write me a letter to say I was a good worker for you. I can get a job so much more easy if I got a nice letter from missis to show to people."

"[illegible] certainly am not going to write any letter of reference for you," she replied. "I'm not going to help you get a job where you can blackmail some other woman the way you tried to blackmail me! Now I want you to go."

"Watch if I don't get even with you!" she said threateningly. "Watch if I don't!"

Three-Minute Journeys Abroad

By TEMPLE MANNING

SIGAW skirts have become inseparably indentified with the South seas. And they are there—but not everywhere.

Last Thursday I told you about Rabaul in New Britain, part of New Guinea. Rabaul, now under Australian control, has set about to reform the dress of the women. [illegible] was not so long ago when the women everywhere in this part of the globe wore the pupuis, or grass skirt. But now one sees the Kanaka women or "Marys," as they are called in Rabaul, dressed in unbecoming calico skirts (these short skirts are called laplaps, incidentally) and "Marys" blouses which cover their velvety brown skin. Strange to say, this change in costume seems to have effected a change of character. The woman who in her native village is an industrious worker becomes lazy and slovenly in the white man's town where western clothes are required.

But in New Guinea proper the grass skirt is still au fait, so you see the illusion is not completely blasted.

The glory of color is found in the male of the species. The "boys" (all of them are "boys") take great delight in adorning themselves. Their hair has a tendency to grow straight up and this lends itself to all forms of decoration—and color harmonies! For about a [illegible] the New Britain boy [illegible] to dye his hair. Every color in the spectrum may be seen in the hair of the boys as one walks along the streets of Rabaul. They even go in for two-tone effects. In addition to [illegible] the blossoms of [illegible]

Ear decorations are [illegible] in high favor. When these [illegible] and small discs of wood [illegible]. Then as they grow older the small discs are replaced by larger ones and the ears stretched farther and farther until they reach down almost to the shoulder blades.

Bicycles are extremely popular in Rabaul, particularly among the "boys." It is no uncommon sight to see them rolling down the main street of the city, their brightly colored topknot blazing like a beacon. Sometimes they will capture one of the brilliant tropical butterflies and with a length of wool attach it to their hair.

Etiquette of the Gift

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

[illegible]

GERTRUDE, Waltham: I should not advise this. It is very unladylike.

R. I. S., Skowhegan, Me.: A book would be proper.

WORRIED, Taunton: Yes, by all means.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for prints of smart sayings. Address Smart Sayings, Boston Evening American.

Recently my neighbor and three-year-old boy were visiting me. We had been discussing the little boy's looks and his mother made the remark that he had his father's chin.

A short while afterwards I was holding a small kitten in my lap and asked the little boy how he liked the kitten.

He looked at it very seriously and replied, "He has his father's chin."

AHUMADA LEAD CO.

Ahumada Lead Co. in 1929 produced and sold 12,574,104 pounds of lead and 124,817 ounces of silver. This is an average yield of 442.2 pounds of lead and 4.39 ounces of silver a ton. Average price received for lead was 6.78 cents a pound and for silver 52.72 cents an ounce. In recognition of their services directors gave officers of the company an option at $1 a share on 45,000 shares of the company's stock until March 15, 1932. To date none of this stock has been issued.

HOUSTON OIL

Net profit of Houston Oil for 1929 is equal after preferred dividends to $4.77 a share on 250,000 shares of common, against $1,812,517, or $5.11 a share on 249,686 shares in 1928.

STOCK MARKET RALLY AIDED BY WHEAT

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

New York, Feb 27 (AP). Stock prices rallied sharply again today in response to a further recovery in wheat prices and a lowering of the call money rate from 4½ to 4 per cent.

More than a score of issues, including several amusement, department, business machine, public utility and motor accessory shares, moved into new high ground for the year.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were distributed over a fairly broad list, with a sprinkling of issues marked up 4 to 7 points.

UPWARD FROM START

Several of the speculative favorites were taken in blocks of 1000 to 10,000 shares by pools, but the public was still rather slow in coming back into the market in large numbers.

A few seasoned dividend paying stocks, current yields of which are attractive, were bought by investment interests.

"Bear" traders apparently made no concerted efforts to hammer individual stocks, although brokers reported that some issues showed indications of scale selling on the part of these interests.

Industrial Rayon fell 6 points, Safeway Stores 2¾, and Johns Manville and Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies 1½ each.

MAKES UP DIVIDEND

U. S. Steel common made up the dividend of $1.75 a share which came off the stock today.

J. I. Case ran up 7 points, Beatrice Creamery 6 to a new high at 79, Auburn Auto 3, and Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, Brunswick Balke-Collender and Eastman Kodak sold 4 or more points higher.

American Bank Note, Westinghouse Electric, American International, Associated Dry Goods, Underwood, Elliott-Fisher, Warner Bros. Pictures common and preferred, Loews, Paramount Famous Lasky, Borden, Radio Corp., North American, Remington Rand, Marlin-Rockwell, Sparks Withington, Indian Motocycle and Lambert were among the issues that broke into new high ground for the year.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Several industrial and public utilities reported favorable 1929 earnings, but some of the January statements of the railroads now being published make very unfavorable comparison with the corresponding month of last year.

UNITED SHOE IN MERGER

Directors of British United Shoe Machinery Co., Ltd., have completed arrangements whereby the business of the Gimson Shoe Machinery Co., Ltd., will be absorbed by the former. Purpose of the amalgamation is to reduce overhead expense, avoid the conflict of patent interests and better to serve the general interests of the English shoe manufacturing industry.

Gimson Shoe Machinery Co., Ltd., capitalized for £200,000 and with assets of approximately £300,000 ranks next in size to the British United and its acquisition strongly entrenches the latter in the English field. The Gimson factories at Leicester will continue to function and Kingsley Gimson, head of the Gimson concern, joins the official personnel of British United.

The British United Shoe Machinery Co., Ltd., is the largest and most important of the many foreign subsidiaries of United Shoe Machinery Corp. While the French and German subsidiaries are flourishing organizations, the British company considerably outranks both in point of resources and capacity.

Chrysler Was Among First to See Slowing Up

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—"How's business?" I asked Walter P. Chrysler.

"I don't know. I haven't seen it lately," was his half facetious, half serious reply.

B. C. Forbes

The automobile magnate, who has been sojourning in Florida and is going on a brief cruise to tone up his health, frankly admitted that business—automobile and general—has proved rather disappointing.

It is not generally known that Walter Chrysler was among the very first of our great American industrialists to foresee that financial and business trouble was coming. He trimmed sail while others, less discerning, continued full speed ahead.

I caught Mr. Chrysler for only a moment while he was starting preparations for his cruise, but as he started off he said, "I'll be back in New York about the 15th of March and I would like to have a good talk then about things."

I have been mixing with "the Florida crowd" and have found that that is true. Incidentally their pessimism hasn't been stopping them from having a full quota of pleasure. One of the most spectacular Palm Beach spenders is a stock exchange man whose firm encountered serious trouble during the panic. Whenever I get away from the daily grind, life usually looks rosier. Not so this season with the financial notables enjoying Palm Beach festivities.

* * *

Depression or no depression, never before were so many yachts of American multi-millionaires skimming across the waters off Florida and farther South. The latest to appear is the beauty just built by A. P. Sloan, Jr., the tremendously hard-working president of General Motors. It was characteristic of this human dynamo that he didn't take the time to come South on his yacht, but used faster transportation.

If any man in the United States has earned a spell of play, it is Alfred Sloan. He has been a slave to business ever since on leaving college he took hold of a run-down property in which his father was interested and started to make it hum. His record has been one of unbroken success, thanks to inherent ability, intense study, mastery of engineering, acute business judgment, wholly extraordinary industriousness, and by no means least important, inexhaustible patience and persuasiveness in handling other brainy men.

* * *

Another prominent man of affairs is now in Palm Beach enjoying the first two weeks' vacation he has ever indulged in since he started work nearly 40 years ago in a humble capacity, Matthew C. Brush, president of the American International Corporation, which he took hold of when run down and has rebuilt. Matt, a bachelor, is also something of a human dynamo, but unlike Mr. Sloan, he has contrived to mix a good deal of fun with his fighting for success.

"The best thing for the country would be to let the stock market act perfectly naturally—there's been too much trying to force a too-hasty recovery," he remarked. "Things will come out all right but it would be foolish to manipulate quotations higher than actual conditions warrant. To do this might invite fresh trouble."

Matt Brush's hobby is elephants—living and every other conceivable kind. Said one of his friends as the two returned from golf, "Matt even went in for an elephant of a score this afternoon."

* * *

Jules S. Bache, head of his own large and successful stock exchange firm, is worrying more about the current low prices for wheat, cotton and some other commodities than about current or prospective prices for stocks. Ordinarily of a highly optimistic nature, Mr. Bache agrees with the prevalent sentiment among financiers now in Florida that this is no time for wildness stock market-wise.

* * *

W. C. Durant presumably feels the same way for, his friends tell me, he has planned a trip to Europe. Many expected that Durant would be ruined by the stock market's terrific collapse. But he wasn't. Like most people, he is distinctly poorer than he was when securities were worth very much more. But you or I would probably be very willing to have what Durant still has left.

CURB MARKET SHARES MOVE HIGHER

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—Curb market shares continued to work higher today, although progress was impeded at times by realizing on yesterday's advances. Gains in the more active shares were rather narrow, although some of the more erratic issues made substantial headway.

Activity was concentrated in the utilities, where American Gas and Utilities Power & Light were notably firm spots. Electric Bond & Share ruled a little higher, despite considerable profit taking.

Cleveland Electric Illuminating mounted a few points into new high ground for the year, and Public Service of Northern Illinois, an infrequently traded issues, soared nearly 10 points to a new high price for 1920.

Oils were generally steady to firm, with Indian Territory rising moderately to the neighborhood of its high for the year. United Gas was again a feature of the natural gas issues, reaching new high ground above 33.

Investment trusts were generally firm, Lehman Corp., Selected Industries and National Investors selling up a little. In the holding company group, Marine Midland encountered profit taking, but was well supported.

Industrials and specialties were rather quiet. Loew's debenture warrants reached new high ground, in sympathy with strength in the amusement group on the big board, and Fox Theaters A was firm.

New Haven clock and Brown Fence moved into new high territory. Arcturus Tube and Mead Johnson were soft spots, the latter touching a new low.

Alabama and Great Southern, a rather inactive rail stock, rose more than 4 points to a new high for the year at 130.

COTTON PRICES ARE LOWERED

New York, Feb. 27—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 3 to 10 points today under a renewal of near month liquidation which was evidently incident to the circulation of March notices estimated at about 15,400 bales.

March sold off to 14.90 under the pressure of the early offerings or 15 points net lower, but otherwise there was not much selling and after showing net declines of about 5 to 15 points, the market steadied on trade buying and covering.

Prices later were within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations. Business in new contracts for October, December and January delivery began this morning. There was fair trading in these positions at prices ranging from 20 to 25 points below quotations for the old contracts. The old October, for instance, was selling around 15.70 at the opening compared with 15.50 for the new.

Liverpool made a fairly steady showing. Private cables said Bombay selling had been absorbed by covering and trade calling in that market.

Utilities' Output in Year Up 11 P. C.

Midvale Co.

Midvale Co. reports for 1929 net profit of $1,368,033 after charges and Federal taxes, against $981,292 in 1928. This is equal to $6.84 a share on 200,000 no-par shares, against $4.90 a share in 1928.

GRAIN LEADER SENDS PROTEST TO HOOVER

Wichita, Kan., Feb. 27 (AP)—H. R. Smith, president of the Wichita Board of Trade, has appealed to President Hoover for "immediate steps" to revoke the order of the Farmers National Grain Corporation limiting wheat purchases to grain handled by co-operative elevators.

Smith, in a telegram to the President, said the Stevens-Scott Grain Company, of which he is president, was put "in the position of being eliminated from its grain business by refusal of the federal Farm Board Agency to buy wheat from other than cooperatives."

The company has ten independent elevators in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Peace Efforts in Fox Case Proceed

New York, Feb. 27. Efforts are being made to reconcile the conflicting banking groups interested in the reorganization of Fox Film Corp. and conversations are now under way with a view to settling the differences.

This explains why arguments will not be heard today on the order signed by Supreme Court Justice Bijur to show cause why an injunction should not be granted to prevent the voting trustees representing Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Western Electric Co. from voting the Class B stock held in escrow.

To Reduce Par Value of Fall River Plant

Stockholders of Merchants Manufacturing Co. of Fall River voted to reduce par value of stocks from $100 to $25, bringing capitalization down from $1,500,000 to $375,000. Action deemed advisable as main mill has been dismantled since change in control. Stockholders also ratified payment of $75 per share dividends in liquidation and sale of such machinery from main unit as has not been used in revamping of the Crescent mill which is now operating as separate unit.

Rayon Imports Jump 35 Per Cent

Department of Commerce reports 35 per cent increase in rayon imports into United States in 1929 over 1928. Germany still leads in field of foreign countries exporting rayon to United States, which in 1929 consumed 35 per cent of estimated world output. Imports from pounds, or 88 per cent of total pounds, or 8 sper cent of total.

Baldwin Shipments

Consolidated shipments of Baldwin Locomotive affiliated companies in February will approximate $3,700,000, or about the same as in January.

BIG BUSINESS ENTERPRISE REVIEWED

That there is no business enterprise anywhere which is at once so vast and so diverse as the House of Mitsui in Japan, an article in the March issue of the new de luxe business monthly "Fortune" reveals.

The agencies of the House of Mitsui abroad, says "Fortune," outnumber the embassies and consulates of the Empire. Deposits with the Mitsui bank exceed the revenue from all the cities of Japan for 1929. In the constant safekeeping of the Mitsui lie one-fifth of all goods warehoused in the Empire.

A quarter of Japan's commerce, both import and export, is handled by the Mitsui Trading Co., and 40 per cent of the exports of coal. Under the firm's flag or charter are three and a quarter million tons of shipping—as large a tonnage as the whole mercantile marine of France.

The House of Mitsui is thus a merchant empire. It has been prosperous for [illegible] years and conspicuously rich for more than a quarter of a millennium—roughly since Shakespeare's time. Today the house is ruled by the senior Baron Hachiroyemon, 11th Baron Mitsui. He does rather less work than the King of England. His prime minister of trade is Baron Takuma Dan, sometimes called the "Morgan of Japan."

Paradoxically enough, this enormous business is said by "Fortune" to have a total capitalization far smaller than many large-sized American firms. The wealth of the House of Mitsui is estimated at only $500,000,000, while the holding company of all the Mitsui enterprises is capitalized at $150,000,000.

China Silver Dollar Sinks to New Low

Shanghai, Feb. 27 (AP)—China's silver dollar registered a new low exchange rate today, sinking to 35.58 gold cents and nearing the three-for-one ratio to gold dollars predicted in financial circles.

As the Mexican dollar, principal unit in the currency of China, declines, financial troubles in this country increase. Prices of everything are soaring and living costs have been sharply affected.

Shipbuilding Co. Pays $40 a Share

American Shipbuilding Co. will reduce its capital and pay to common stockholders, out of surplus, $40 a share in cash. A special stockholders' meeting has been called for March 20 to vote on the plan, which involves reducing par value of common stock with creation of an authorized issue of 230,000 shares of no-par common to take place of present authorized issue of 155,000 common shares of $100 par.

Bank Note Earns More for the Year

Report of American Bank Note Co. for 1929 shows net income of $3,409,791 after depreciation, interest, federal taxes, etc., equivalent after preferred dividends to $4.81 a share (par $10) on 651,856 shares of common stock. This compares with $2,706,522 or $4.26 a share on 593,430 common shares in 1928.

$80,000,000 Cuban Loan Is Ratified

The $80,000,000 loan contract between the Cuban government and the Chase National Bank has been ratified with signatures of the government and the bank. Warren Bros., Boston pavers, with a big Cuban contract, are expected to be large beneficiaries.

Silver at New Low Price in New York

New low prices for silver established in New York with bar silver selling at 42⅜ cents an ounce, a decline of ⅜ of a cent, and Mexican dollars quoted at 31⅛ cents, off ¼. New break attributed to heavy selling in China and India.

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Feb. 27 (AP).—Bonds made further overtures toward improvement today. Buying in numerous low coupon rails was fairly impressive and this important group, as well as the utilities, presented a distinctly firm appearance.

The easier turn in the money markets and a belief that the mid-March treasury financing would be on the favorable basis of 3½ to 3¾ per cent, sent the long term listed government securities upward. Liberties and Treasuries were active in the early trading.

NEW HAVENS UP

Wabash 5s, St. Louis San Francisco 4½s, Northern Pacific B 6s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Erie 5s were firm spots, tending higher on depressed offerings.

New Orleans Texas & Mexico 5s were heavy, losing a point.

Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship 5s, which rallied yesterday on the restoration of the $5 preferred dividend, continued to improve, rising more than a point on rather lively inquiry. Warner Sugar stamped 7s dropped 2 points to a new low and International Paper 6s yielded most of Wednesday's gain.

American Telephone 5s of 1965, one of the most active issues in yesterday's market, again turned over in substantial volume at virtually no change in price. International Telephone's new debenture 5s as the straight debenture also met demand, the latter gaining a major fraction.

CONVERTIBLES RISE

Share privilege bonds had little trouble making higher ground in view of the movement of stocks during the early hours. Loews 6s with warrants went to a new 1930 peak on an advance of more than a point.

American Telephone convertible 4½ improved about 3 points and International Telephone convertible 4½s nearly 2. Reading Coal & Ohio 6s crossed 96 for a more moderate gain.

French bonds took a conspicuous part in the foreign trading. Bordeaux 6s, Lyons 6s, Seine 7s and the Republic 7½s were leaders.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway's $8,085,000 block of 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates was offered to yield 4.50 to 4.70 per cent, and the Western Public Service Company's $1,500,000 loan in 30 year first 5½s was priced at 91½.

Old Dominion's Profit Increases

Profit of Old Dominion Co. for 1929, based on copper actually sold during the year, after making provision for depreciation, reserve for taxes and charges, but before depletion, was $249,407, according to preliminary estimate, compared with $177,729 in 1928. Profits on copper remaining on hand at the end of 1929 will accrue to the year 1930. Current assets on Dec. 31 amounted to $1,695,141 with current liabilities of $437,386 against current assets as of Dec. 31, 1928, of $2,404,978 and current liabilities of $396,918.

COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM announces seven new programs to be broadcast over its nation-wide network during the current month. They are as follows:

THE TWINPLEX TWINS, "Shave" and "Smile," start next Sunday evening at 7:30 in a program of close harmony and dialogue.

THE GOLD STRAND GROUP, directed by Merle Johnston, saxophonist; Audrey Marsh, soprano; Veronica Wiggins, contralto, and Fred Vettel, tenor, open Monday, March 4, at 10:30 p. m.

THE FRO-JOY PLAYERS commence in a series of playlets beginning Thursday, March 6, at 7 p. m.

MUSICAL Comedy Memories, reviving outstanding musical comedy scores of recent years, will start Tuesday, March 11, at 10:30 p. m. The operetta "New Moon" has been selected for the first presentation. Belle Forbes Cutter, lyric soprano, and Albert Rappaport, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, are featured.

DOUGLAS SHOEMAKERS will present a new program Thursday, March 13, at 8:30 p. m. Oscar Elgart will direct the orchestra. The soloists are John Herrick and Earle Nelson.

WALTER WINCHELL, Broadway gossip, will be the headliner when the new Van Heusen program is first broadcast Wednesday, March 12, at 9 p. m. This program includes an orchestra, directed by William Wirges, with Vee Lawnhurst featured singer.

NATIONAL SHOE RETAILERS program will be presented Wednesday, March 19, at 7:45 p. m. The program will include songs, stories and current events topics.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF INDIANA AND ALEMITE will broadcast special one-time programs March 12 and 13. Sophie Tucker, Texas Guinan and Dave Barry, who was the referee of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, will be featured.

TWO concerts by the 150-piece symphony orchestra made up of high school students from all parts of the country will be broadcast at 2 o'clock this afternoon and at 11 tomorrow morning through stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company, including WEEI.

The symphony today is heard from the stage of the municipal auditorium in Atlantic City, where the National High School Orchestra appears under the baton of Walter Damrosch as a feature of the educators' convention in session there. The Atlantic City program follows:

Pathetique Symphony .... Tschaikowsky
Les Preludes .... Liszt
Cripple Creek .... Stringfield
Song of the Volga Boatman ... arr. Stoessel
American Fantasy .... Herbert

THE SAME ORCHESTRA will perform two numbers in the weekly NBC Music Appreciation Hour Friday morning at 11 o'clock. For the Friday concert the musicians will be assembled in Carnegie Hall under the baton of their regular conductor, Joseph Maddy. Their two selections will be introduced by Damrosch. The two contributions of the young musicians will be "Siegried's Rhine Journey" and "The Mill" by Raff.

CANCER CLINIC CLOSES DOOR

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL
Universal Service

San Francisco, Feb. 27—"Let no new cancer patients come here from other towns and cities to receive our experimental treatments!

"We shall simply not treat any new out-of-town patients. Of local patients, too, we have enough for our purposes of investigation. More cannot be treated."

Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber have made this announcement.

"On the other hand, we would gladly welcome any medical or laboratory scientists who wish to visit here to observe the manner and progress of our work," they stated.

Drs. Coffey and Humber were particularly disturbed, they said, by reports that many out of town patients were coming to this city without notification.

"One patient, who began treatment on January 30, had his ninth injection of the extract today," the physicians reported. "His was a cancer of the throat. Today the lump on the right side seemingly had disappeared."

Persia's Deposed Shah Dies in Paris

Seven-Day Service Inaugurated Today

The S. S. Hamburg, with Capt. Oskar Schwamberger in command, will sail from Pier 84, North River, New York, today for Cherbourg, Southampton and Hamburg, inaugurating the weekly seven-day transatlantic service of the Hamburg-American Line, which will be maintained by the four ships of the Albert Ballin type.

WILKINS SELLS POLAR PLANES

Universal Service Special Cable

Buenos Aires, Feb. 27—Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the Hearst-Wilkins Antarctic Expedition, has sold the expedition's two airplanes, the Los Angeles and San Francisco, to the Argentine government.

Sir Hubert returned to civilization last Saturday after months of exploration in the Antarctic operating from a base on Deception Island.

The Los Angeles, used on several long flights from his base ship, the William Scoresby, was also the plane in which Sir Hubert and the late Carl Ben Eielson made their historic flight from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen.

DOMINICANS IN PEACE PARLEY

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, Feb. 27 (AP)—With the city of Santo Domingo and most of the country in the hands of Insurgent forces, leading figures both in the Insurgent movement and in the government were gathered here today to reach some kind of an agreement.

President Horacio Vasquez, whose resignation has been demanded by the Insurgents, summoned a national assembly at which he planned to present a presidential message. He invited the diplomats and consuls in Santo Domingo to be present.

Gen. Rafael Estrella Urena and Desiderio Arias, chiefs of the movement against the government, arrived in the capital which is being held by 2000 of their followers.

TWO INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Brockton, Feb. 27—One woman is dying at Brockton Hospital, another is seriously injured, and two automobiles were demolished as a result of a head-on collision at Warren ave. and Pleasant st. early this morning.

Mrs. Joseph Madden, 40, of 13 Myrtle st., Boston, who was riding in the front seat with her husband, en route home, suffered a fractured skull.

Mrs. Allen Barrows, 39, of 136 Packard way, Brockton, who was in the rear seat of the Madden car, was badly cut about the head, face and arms by flying glass.

The accident occurred when a machine, said by Brockton police to have been operated by John C. Carr of 44 Liberty st., South Braintree, on Warren ave., crashed into Madden's car.

Both drivers told the police they were confused by blinding headlights.

Silver Slipper Gets Falcione as Chef

The management of the Silver Slipper at 111 Arlington st. announces that they have secured the services of Rocco Falcione, recently a chef at Rich's Grill. Falcione, at the age of 11, assisted in the kitchen of Prince Ravascheire of Naples.

He was also chef in the Hotel Alemen at Buenos Aires, and assistant to the famous chef, Becara. Before coming to the Silver Slipper he was at the Rich's Grill for 10 years, and served in many other hotels. A special dinner at a very reasonable price is now being served from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m. with no cover charge.

State House Blunder

The Setting Aside of Mr. Conry

FAILURE of the State Department of Civil Service and Registration to confirm Mayor Curley's choice of a Boston traffic commissioner will serve a useful purpose if it centers the attention of Legislature and people upon this Civil Service board, even for a day or two.

Who are the members of the board and what is their peculiar fitness for its work?

Another was a tobacco worker, called to the State House in order to balance the board and give HIS section of the State the recognition its politicians desired.

The third man qualifies as an "expert." He was, for a time, the secretary of a civil service "reform" organization. The picture we get from that is of a private organization, set up outside of the civil service for the purpose of keeping a sharp eye upon those on the inside.

THESE are the men—none of them elected, each the salaried appointee of a governor—who assume to say that a Boston attorney of the highest standing is unfit, unadapted, or incompetent to serve his city as its traffic commissioner.

They are the SAME men who, within a year, confirmed Mayor Nichols' appointment of one of his clerks to the SAME OFFICE!

THAT'S home rule for you, and there you have "civil service," as it is administered today in Massachusetts.

'Boys Will Be Boys'?

College MEN Need Not Be Savages

ABOUT the only way in which we can account for the severe burning of Amherst freshmen by dunder-headed members of the sophomore class is that Amherst's recent run of favorable publicity was too good to last.

The freshmen, bent upon bringing to a close a six-months' period of "humiliation," had assembled in front of the Library, for the purpose of burning the pea-green skull caps which they had worn since September, tokens of their "inferiority."

In a preliminary struggle, the second year men spattered the yearlings WITH KEROSENE, withdrew, and then swooped down upon the younger men with lighted torches.

> "To the consternation of the onlookers, 15 or 20 students, their clothing ablaze, emerged from the milling throng and headed for the nearest bank of snow or mud, into which they rolled to save themselves from possible death."

What the college authorities will do about it remains to be determined. Members of the faculty called the kerosene oil attack the "most disgraceful exhibition" ever witnessed at Amherst.

The sophomore who suggested the use of oil is, of course, the prize boob of Amherst history; and may even be entitled to the intercollegiate title.

But the committee which gave its sanction to the oil can is equally responsible, equally muddle-headed.

We trust the men in the infirmary will be out and about in a day or two, as good as new.

In that case, we hope President Pease and Dean Atkinson will not single out an individual but will punish the CLASS of 1932.

Jeremiah Jones Colbaith

U. S. Grant's Vice-President

A CELEBRATION by Farmington, New Hampshire, of the birthday anniversary of the town's most famous son, suggested the questions which were asked in these columns on Monday regarding Henry Wilson, born Colbaith.

Without mentioning the name of Wilson, we asked high school girls to tell us what they could about Jeremiah Jones Colbaith, and promised a reward to the writer of the first letter received.

That reward, a "steel engraving of Abraham Lincoln, good for Five Dollars anywhere in the U. S. A.," is on its way to Miss Helen Corkery, Natick High School, class of '32, who wrote as follows:

>
> "1—The name under which he is celebrated at Farmington and elsewhere is Henry Wilson.
>
> "2—Farmington celebrates his birthday because this native son of Farmington was a Vice-President of the United States.
>
> "3—Massachusetts, and especially the town of Natick, is particularly interested in Henry Wilson because he was a member of our State Legislature and represented the Commonwealth in the Senate of the United States. It was as a citizen of Massachusetts, moreover, that he was elected Vice-President."

Other correct answers came to us on Tuesday from Natick, Gardner and Methuen, Mass., and Alton, N. H. Letters received LATER than Tuesday, and numbering 33, have not been considered.

And we thought we were giving high school girls a "test"!

MR. F. OPPER, youthful but accurate observer of human events, selects the title for this picture: "From every mountain height let freedom ring."

Our Government having transferred the collection of taxes on beer, wine and whiskey from the National Treasury to the National Bootleg Organization, the padlock comes in as a dry by-product.

There are two pass-keys to those padlocks, one in the possession of the drys, who know how to open it and get out what they want.

Otherwise, the locks work perfectly. Have you yours?

Listen, World!

DOES big business two-time women?

Does it discriminate against them, and take advantage of them, merely because they're females?

Miss Agnes L. Peterson, assistant director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, believes it does and says so, plenty, in a recent report on women workers.

"The double standard in wages," says Miss Peterson, "and the absence of chivalry have resulted in unscrupulous exploitation of potential motherhood. . . . The general custom of paying wages on the basis of sex is a relic of the dark ages. . . . The majority of employed women are at a great disadvantage, either because they do not dare to bargain about a job, for fear of losing out altogether, or because they are too young and inexperienced to choose or bargain among the jobs available.

All of which sounds mighty pathetic. And I suppose, as a female, I'm expected to indorse it with big moans of self pity. But I won't! For personally, Agnes, as from one Lady Laborite to another, I consider it pure piffle.

"Exploitation of potential motherhood. . . . I admit that listens grand, but just what has it to do with the price of beans? Potential mothers make lovely poetry but, as a matter of actual performance, they're no more precious than potential fathers and no more frail as file clerks. If the potential mothers of the race can swim channels, make trans-continental air trips, grab off all tennis records and generally out-play, out-eat and out-smart all males of the species, I guess they can bear up under eight hours of plain typing. And, at any rate why bring up motherhood in office hours?

"Absence of chivalry?" Why have chivalry if we're fit for equality? Why insist on the difference due to a clinging vine when you're spreading yourself like a sturdy oak? As a matter of fact, chivalry never amounted to much anyway. It was just a fancy bunch of gestures that tickled the girls and let the boys get by with murder. Women aren't naturally any weaker than men. They don't need protection. They only need an even break. And they'll get an even break as soon as they can qualify.

Business offers no difficulties to women that it doesn't also offer to men. A woman is no more afraid to bargain about her job than is a man. An inexperienced girl has no harder time making up her mind than an inexperienced boy.

Women are handicapped not because they're females but because the average woman is still unskilled labor. As a sex they're not yet a safe bet, industrially.

"The general custom of paying wages on the basis of sex is a relic of the dark ages," says Miss Peterson. It is indeed. And so is the average female performance a relic of the dark ages. Most women still think industrially as though Knighthood Were in Flower. And get mad because it isn't. This doesn't mean that women aren't naturally as bright as men. Maybe they're brighter. But they're inexperienced. Men have been rotarians for thousands of years. Women haven't even started. They don't know the meaning of team work. There are exceptionally skillful and reliable individuals amongst them . . . but the individuals must suffer for the weakness of the sex.

Women will be paid as much as men when their performance becomes as standardized as men's . . . when their viewpoint becomes as abstract . . . When they can think collectively and bargain collectively as men now do.

Man and Superman

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

SINCE the time of Nietzsche, within our own era, much thought has been devoted to the question: "Can man produce a species higher than man?" In his remarkable lyric paean, "Also Sprach Zarathustra," Nieztsche painted the picture of the new species, the "Uebermensch."

Bernard Shaw has attracted wide attention by his witty and thought-provoking play, "Man and Superman."

According to the most trustworthy biological evidences available, the genetic difficulties in the way appear insuperable. Each parent transmits to its offspring substances which may be thought of as composed of a large number of "discreet packets of diverse chemicals."

How difficult it would be to control the nature and character of an individual is seen on realization that "the number of different kinds of packets that go into the beginning of any individual is very great, running into the hundreds of thousands."

JENNINGS, the author of "Prometheus," from which these quotations are taken, points out that the earlier idea of representative hereditary units, each standing for a single later characteristic, is exploded. Imagine the process of reproduction somewhat as follows: From each of the parents choose a large number of packets of chemicals, combine them, and thus you have the heritage of the offspring.

Any pair of animal or human parents may produce an almost incalculable number of combinations. No way has been discovered for controlling these combinations. And at the present time it appears doubtful if such a way ever will be found.

This, of course, is not to assert that the lot of given individuals or groups is not capable of great improvement by the application of scientific knowledge. Living conditions may be greatly improved; inventions may greatly enrich life by eliminating laborious drudgery; science in countless ways may alleviate human suffering and eliminate the most unfit for survival.

UNFORTUNATELY, most of the measures already adopted and suggested as eugenic are either negative or palliative. They do not markedly improve the race; they merely prevent its more rapid degeneration.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

HENRY FORD'S proposed chain system of colleges is important.

He already has dedicated the Edison school of technology which was launched during the golden anniversary of the electric light bill.

He will follow it up with a university in every garage.

Henry believes that a chauffeur's license is as important as a raccoon diploma and that every young man should learn a trade.

This will make him unpopular with the young men who smoke cigarettes in shower baths and reach back to their hip pockets for more information on any subject.

But it will be an improvement on students when a college graduate will be able to go back to a Ford educational plant for overhauling.

A college student means plenty of expense and by-products to his old man. After he graduates he spends the next five years seeing the world in a hammock.

We agree that it is better to know how to vulcanize a hot water bottle than to twange a uke or twitch a zither.

Practical education is better than breathing heavily through a saxophone or painting Japanese butterflies on corrugated silk.

Nobody cares when an archaeologist or student of fractured languages goes on a strike. But when a plumber walks out you can be drowned in your own cellar.

We enlist for a course of study in Hank's incubators of manual training. And when we graduate we want a paid-up and non-assessable diploma.

We can give Hank plenty of good advice about starting his universities. First build the football stadiums. Then purchase the raccoon coats. Select a good Mother Goose college cheer.

The Ford system of Model T colleges will get off to a fine start. The fact that Henry is inaugurating a brand new school means that he will have no old grads around to hamper him with well-meant but very stale advice.

H. G. Wells Writes on
"The Science of Life"
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

H. G. Wells

ON the other hand, the alga is sheltered within the mass of mould-threads and has more chance of getting the moisture and mineral salts that it needs than it would if it lived exposed on a rock or on the bark of a tree. It is noticeable that the algae that have been enslaved by lichen-fungi are larger than free-living individuals of the same species, much as our domesticated cattle and sheep and pigs are fatter than their wild relatives.

As a result of this mutual assistance the lichens can grow in places which are too barren to support any other form of vegetable life.

The fungi are the dominant, active members of the association; it is they that capture the algae that are enslaved. The specific characters of a lichen—its form and color and so forth—depend on the particular kind of fungus that it includes.

Moreover, the lichen-making fungi are completely dependent upon their captives, and they cannot live by themselves (unless they are carefully nursed in the laboratory in a nutrient solution).

The algae, on the other hand, are involuntary partners; they belong to species which normally live independently by themselves. Often several different kinds of lichen-making fungus make use of the same species of alga; there is one kind which uses two different species.

Perhaps the relations between fungus and algae will be most clearly understood if we consider the methods of reproduction of lichens. Of these there are three.

The first is simple fragmentation; if any part of a lichen be broken off and if it blows or tumbles or rolls into a suitable situation, the fungal threads will sprout and grow and the algae will multiply, so that the fragment gives rise to a new lichen plant.

The second method, slightly more complicated, is by means of special and characteristic buds called soredia. A soredium is a tiny spherical particle, consisting of a number of fungus threads surrounding and holding one or more of the algae; it is like a party of settlers moving to a new region, the fungi being the active members of the expedition and the algae corresponding to such livestock as they take with them to ensure a food supply when they arrive and settle. Soredia are liberated in thousands from the lichen as a powdery mass, and are distributed by wind.

In the third method the fungal part of the lichen forms spores after the usual manner of fungi, without the participation of its algal associates. Such spores, when they settle and germinate, are faced with the immediate necessity of finding and entangling appropriate algae; unless they alight in a place where such algae may be had in plenty they perish of starvation.

Reproduction by soredia is evidently the safer method, since the fungal emigrants take a stock of algae with them; on the other hand, soredia are large and heavy compared with fungus spores—although to our eyes they are minute, powdery granules—so that the spores can be carried for much greater distances by the wind, and spread the species through a wider range.

The largest and most elaborate lichenous plants are found in the tropics; from thence they range to the otherwise bare rocks of Arctic and Antarctic coasts and to mountain heights uninhabitable by other plants. They are even found on rocks far above the snowline.

In Arctic regions lichens are more plentiful than any other form of plant and such forms as the "reindeer moss," "Iceland moss" and "tripe de roche," are important articles of food both for reindeer and for hard-put men.

In the barren steppes stretching from Algeria through Palestine to Tartary the manna-lichen growing on the ground in little, pale, greyish lumps, is eaten by men and beasts—indeed, by saving the Israelites from starvation during their wanderings this species may claim to have had more influence on the present political and economic situation of the world than any other vegetable organism.

Before the extensive use of aniline dyes the lichens were used as sources of pigment; litmus, the acid-alkali indicator of chemists, is an example.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—Fourteenth st.'s incessant hub-bub offers a pleasant slice of the Gay Nineties. It is the last stand of the vanishing off-key hurdy-gurdy, the one-man sidewalk show, the neighborhood ice cream parlor and the portable pony-drawn merry-go-round.

Vacant store rooms are taken over at intervals to exhibit Lolla-Koola, the Lobster boy, the two headed calf, the half dog and half man and other wistful creatures spawned by a freakish twist of nature. The juggler, contortionist and fakir make "pitches" in abandoned doorways.

A waxwork museum with its collection of shuddery murders and gruesome figures, stressing the horrors of social life, is open day and night, while a clown ballyhoo out front balances a feather on his nose and screeches "This way, ladies and gents—the show's just starting."

Weaving in and out of the crowds are food purveyors in baker's coats and caps, hawking cinnamon buns, roasted potatoes on sticks, apples dipped in sticky syrup and other culinary yum yums. The eternal thrill of the circus is always there—alive and challenging.

Continuous burlesque has a steady patronage. Shoddy imitations of the old Winter Garden runways stretch out over the audience for beefy lady leviathans in tights to smirk and wiggle. A green whiskered comedian with splay feet imitates Bert Lahr, with "Ain't I the hound?" as a snapper.

Ten-cent songs books, icecream cones and pink lemonade are peddled up and down the aisles. A tipsy gentleman from the front row is enticed upon the stage to Charleston with the nasal soprano and the crowd roars. A husky voiced and seedy announcer spiels, amid catcalls, next week's attractions.

A chorus, ever out of step, interpolates the half-hearted efforts with undisguised yawns. And at Luchow's, the elite of 14th st. gather in the somber and dark-wooded haven of other days to feast on heavwy German dishes and lift seidels of an attenuated brew.

On 14th st., too, is the last gasp of melodrama. Villains pursue wide-eyed heroines. Paper snow flies in howling storms and the wind shrieks its eerie lament. Long-mustached heavies flick riding crops against top boots in gestures of deep-dyed treachery. And before the last act the entire company indulge in what old troupers used to call "the walk across"—each player passing before the footlights for cheers or hisses.

Many little tobacco and stationery shops on 14th st. have been untouched by the chain store octopus. They retain the dim-lit, fly-blown halo of other days, and prosper.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

BUTTERFLY blossoms, poised for flight,
Frail little messengers of delight,
Yours are the rare, exotic charms
Treasured and praised always.
Waxing in beauty, you mock the storms,
Fairer for wintry days.
All of the tempest and snow outside
Add to your tropic grace;
Violet, lily and rose have died,
Bleak is the garden's face.
Butterfly blossoms, poised for flight,
Until the Spring comes again
Yours to keep beauty's torch alight,
Lovely pink cyclamen!
